CHINESE SURPRISE JAPANESE CAMP IN FIERCE NIGHT ATTACK

AIR SERVICES DISRUPTED BY GALE AND FOG

Giant "Hannibal" Struck
By Sudden Storm.

MISHAP NEAR CROYDON.

(Reuter's Special Service).

London, Yesterday.
Vigilance of the weather are disorganising the air services, out of England, on the continent and elsewhere.

The "Hannibal," forty-two passenger Imperial Airways liner, was temporarily put out of commission owing to a gale which sprang up after she was pegged down for the night at Sarnakh Aerodrome, Palestine.
Her wing and tail were damaged and the machine was dismantled and carried by lorry to Cairo, where she is now undergoing repairs.

London to Paris air services were interrupted by fog and two planes which left Croydon were compelled to return.
A French air liner, carrying eight passengers, began to lose altitude just after taking off from Croydon and landed in a neighbouring field.

The airport at Le Bourget is forbidding and inaccessible. Passengers have to land at Beauvais, 50 miles north of Paris, and thence proceed by train to their destination.

BONCOUR REMAINS UNDECIDED

May Or May Not Try to Form Cabinet.

PRESIDENT'S INVITATION.

Paris, Yesterday.
M. Paul Boncour, former President of the Council of the League of Nations, a man who has worked in harmony with German and British diplomats and with his vaunting home parties, has been given the task of forming a new French Cabinet if he can. But
M. Boncour has not yet decided whether or not he will accept the responsibility.

He will make his announcement tomorrow. It is expected that, following a conference with ex-Premier Herriot, M. Boncour will attempt to form a Government on the President's invitation.

M. Herriot has declined the post of Minister of Foreign Affairs, the most enviable and responsible portfolio in the French Cabinet at this time. But there are some who believe that he may be prevailed upon to accept it ultimately, particularly if his friend, M. Boncour, is at the

A NOTED WOMAN SENT TO PRISON.

Mme. Cinkiewicz Given 15-Month Term.

(Reuter's Special Service)

Warsaw, Yesterday.
Marie Cinkiewicz, a friend of the late M. Krassin, Soviet Ambassador to London, was convicted of an attempt to defraud a Paris Insurance Company of 4,000,000 francs and sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment, with the benefit of the "First Offenders' Act." Formerly a prominent figure in social centres, Mme. Cinkiewicz has recently come into trouble and circumstances.

CANADIAN CITIZENS PAY TRADESMEN WITH LABOUR

No Money Used By Men Of MacDonald's Army.

(Reuter's Special Mail Service).

Vancouver, B.C. Yesterday.
Tired of enforced inactivity and relief grants, the little community of Burnaby, near here, has enlisted under the leadership of a Scot, Donald MacDonald, to create employment, dispense with money and pay debts with labour.

MacDonald's Army of the Common Good, as it is called, now numbers 700 adults. The enlisted one swears to "promise to fulfill whatever duty is assigned to me to the best of my ability, to abide by the will of the majority, to be loyal to the highest interests of the citizens of Canada."—Reuter.

PRES. HOOVER RECOMMENDS ECONOMIES

Reduction In Veteran's Pensions Urged.

BUDGET MESSAGE.

Washington.

Reductions of the benefits of World War veterans and further drastic federal economies were recommended to-day by President Hoover in his annual message to Congress transmitting the budget, but he proposed appropriations for the army and navy on virtually the same basis as at present.

The message, making detailed recommendations for the next fiscal year, supplemented his regular annual message read to Congress.
The President warned Congress that it must watch the nation's purse strings and recommend that the federal manufactures sales tax, suggested in the previous message,
be at the rate of 2.25 per cent.
There was no further mention of the problem of the World War debts.

Replying to the clamour for more benefits for World War veterans, President Hoover laid before Congress the draft of a bill to slash pensions, compensations and allowances of the former soldiers by $127,000,000.

The President attached the proposal to his budget message, warning that upon its enactment and the adoption of his other proposals depended a balanced budget for the fiscal year of 1934 beginning next July 1.

SMITH FAVOURED AS NEW YORK MAYOR.

General Demand For Economy Voiced.

New York.

Mr. Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York is more likely to be next mayor, of New York City than Governor-General of the Philippines, despite overtures from Manila saying Smith would be a happy choice if Governor-General
Theodore Roosevelt has to leave.

A move to draft Smith for "reorganization mayor" in 1933 was under way as Tammany Hall surrendered to forces demanding economy in the city government.

Mr. Smith announced he "would not comment for the present" on the draft movement, but it appears that even if he should formally decline to run, a committee will urge that his name be written in on the ballot in an annual election.
The offer is in annual election ballot and a general demand for economy.

CHINA MAIL CHRISTMAS SUPPLEMENT

A Bright, Attractive Magazine.

TO BE ISSUED FREE
ON TUESDAY.

THE CHINA MAIL 1932
CHRISTMAS NUMBER is a most attractive magazine with a wide appeal to local readers.

The Supplement, an annual number, will be published to-morrow, and on Tuesday will be issued with each copy of the China Mail.

Containing a variety of bright stories, Christmas items and local and humorous articles, and profusely illustrated, the number is the best example of its type of journalism that has yet appeared in Hong Kong.

A four page pictorial supplement is published with the issue.
The pictures of local interest include 30 photographs of Hong Kong and Kowloon, and Chinese scenes, while recent events pictorially represented include the Hong Kong Volunteer Detence Corps camp, the opening of the Fung Ping Shan Chinese Library by H.E. the Governor (Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E.), Girl Guides' presentation of the Thanks' Badge to H.E. Major-General J. W. Sandilands, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O. In addition, photographs of current happenings in England and pictures of Christmas significance are published.

Local Contributors

Local writers are well featured in the Christmas Supplement among the contributors being the Rev. J.
N. Lewis Bryan and the Rev. E. L.
Allen.

Leaders of the Hong Kong clergy including the Very Rev. Alfred Swann, Dean of Hong Kong,
the Rt. Rev. H. Valtorta, Vicar Apostolic, and the Rev. W. Walton
Rogers, Vicar of St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, contribute articles.

Stories by many of the best known authors, including Edgar Allan Poe and Ben Travers, appear in the number. A charming romance "Hansel" by Susan Ertz, the popular American novelist, is an outstanding attraction.

Several short Christmas stories and a page of humorous items complete this attractive number, which is highly recommended.
The Supplement is splendidly produced, the excellent printing being done at the Newspaper Enterprise Limited.

The Christmas Supplement will be issued on the one day, Tuesday, only, and will be issued free with the daily editions of Tuesday's China Mail. On other days copies can be procured at the Offices of the China Mail.

4 CENTURIES IN ENGLAND'S SCORE OF 502

Ames And Paynter
Bat Brightly.

JAMES TAKES 6 FOR 96.

Launceston, Yesterday.
At the conclusion of the second day's play between Tasmania and the M.C.C. touring eleven, the home side with 7 wickets in hand require 215 runs to save the follow-on.

Ames (91) and Paynter (53)
continued the M.C.C. innings at 393 for 8 before a crowd of 4,200.
The weather was showery,
though the wicket was good.
Ames added only 16 runs to his overnight score, hitting ten boundaries in his 107 scored in 169 minutes.

Paynter gave a hard hitting exhibition of batting, and in a chanceless 102, scored in 138 minutes, he hit a six and twelve boundaries.

With the dismissal of Paynter the side collapsed in a sensational manner, the innings closing for 502 to which four players contributed 419. G. H. James concluded the innings with the splendid figures of 6 for 96 while S. Putman took the remaining 4 wickets for 156 runs.

Tasmania, who are up to the standard of Minor County Cricket in England and who are not participants in the Australian Sheffield Shield matches, scored 137 for the loss of 3 wickets before the close.

J. Badcock, one of the most promising of the younger players, compiled a useful 57 in a dogged innings.

Full scores as cabled by Reuter were as follow:—
M.C.C.: 502 (Sutcliffe 101, Nawab of Pataudi 109, Ames
107, Paynter 102, Putman
4 for 156, James 6 for 96).
Tasmania: 137 for 3 (Bad-cock 57).

Argentine Terrorist Plot Bared

Police Discover Plan And Bombs.

EX-PRESIDENTS SEIZED.

Buenos Aires, Yesterday.
Plans for a terrorist campaign, directed against the Government, have been discovered by police here.

It has been found that the plotters had intended to seize President Justo, occupy public buildings and wage a bombing war against authority.
There have been many arrests, including two ex-presidents, Mr.
Irigoyen and Mr. Alvarez, and numerous other members of the Radical party. The two ex-presidents will be deported, it is said.

So far there has been no violence, but the city is in "a state of siege."

The plot was discovered through investigation of an explosion in the home of a friend of Mr. Irigoyen. It was found that an enormous quantity of bombs was stored there. The places was a veritable arsenal.
Still another house, the home of another Radical, was searched and a quantity of arms and ammunition brought to light. Thereafter the Government agents worked quickly and with precision.—Reuter.

3-YEAR PLAN ANNOUNCED IN CANTON

Practical Development Undertaken.

TAXATION MAY INCREASE.

Canton, Yesterday.
A practical Utopia will emerge out of the Kuomintang 3-year plan for the Provincial Government, to be put into effect by General Chen Chiang, commander-in-chief of the First Group Army.

Briefly the plan will call for efficient government administration, reconstruction, "economic rehabilitation and encouragement of industry. The plan will start next year.

As a start, incompetent and corrupt officials will be removed within the first six months of 1933. On the other hand, (compulsory) and household public services will be given the economic and administrative treatment of public utilities. Government employees will be retrained by means of a compulsory course in efficiency.

FAMOUS PUBLISHER OF LIMEHOUSE PASSES.

"Charlie" Brown Disposed Of Bulk Of Fortune.

(Reuter's Special Mail Service).

London.
"Charlie" Brown, London's most famous publisher, who was believed to be worth more than £100,000, has left property valued at £17,612. He had disposed of his wealth during recent years.
"Charlie's Tavern" in the West India Dock Road, Limehouse, was one of the sights of the East End of London, for it contained antiques and pictures from all corners of the world.
Ten thousand persons attended his burial.—Reuter.

KUOMINTANG CHIEFS DENY BATTLE PLAN

Soong Not Sponsor
Of "Resilience."

PROPOSAL FOR DEBATE.

Nanking, Yesterday.
Reuter learns from authoritative sources that the reports that Mr. T. V. Soong and other Government leaders are sponsoring the proposal for concentration of China's armies to resist further aggression in Manchuria, are false.

It was reported that Mr. Soong, among others, had pledged himself to this plan before the Conference of the Kuomintang Central Executive Council, now sitting here. It was said that the Finance Minister had been one of those championing the suggestion that China's troops should be hurried to Manchuria, that full assistance should be given to the Chinese Volunteers already active there and that the direction of the boycott against Japan should be undertaken by the Government and the Kuomintang Party.

It was reported, at the same time, that the same group of powerful leaders had deprecated the League of Nations' effectiveness in the Manchurian controversy.

COMMUNISTS' PLOT REVOLT IN GERMANY

Charged With Robbery
To Obtain Arms.

STRUGGLE IN COLOGNE.

(Reuter's Special Service)

Munich, Yesterday.
Charges of robbery for the purpose of providing their party with funds and arms, were made by police against a number of Communist who were arrested to-day after a series of raids on Communist Headquarters throughout Bavaria.

The arrests followed a police raid on Monday when 31 Communists were seized in connection with a revolution planned in Bavaria and intended to spread through all Germany.
An array of weapons, machine guns and Communist literature were found in the homes of the arrested.

COLONEL OF JAPAN UNIT AMONG DEAD

Fierce Fighting In Northern Camp.

DAWN SURPRISE ATTACK.

Tokyo, To-day.

It is learned from Tashinchiao that Colonel Mori and one subaltern were killed, and seven majors, one lieutenant, officers and seven Manchukuoans were seriously wounded during two hours of hand to hand fighting early yesterday morning, when a party of 500 "Great Sword" fighting men surrounded and attacked an encampment of 180 Japanese and Manchukuo troops at Tuchen-tai on the Mukden-Antung Railway line.

Carrying out their surprise attack before dawn, a desperate encounter ensued in the early darkness. The hand-to-hand fighting was finally repulsed, leaving scores of dead.—Reuter.

LEAGUE HEARS ANGLO-PERSIA OIL DISPUTE

Britain Requires
Swift Action.

OPPONENTS ASK FOR

(Reuter's Special Service)

Geneva, Yesterday.
The Anglo-Persian oil fields dispute has reached the League of Nations.

The British representative has lodged a thirty-page long statement with the secretariat, to be published when the Council of the League meets next week.

The Persian representative in Geneva has been consulting with the Secretary-General of the League with a view to obtaining delayed investigation to enable the Government to present its case more comprehensively.

The British, on the other hand, desire no delay and that statements should be submitted at once so that the League machinery can be set in motion.

The dispute is an involved affair, and one in which Persia insists upon her right to cancel a treaty whereby she gave certain rights to Great Britain in the Persian oil fields. This Treaty was signed in 1901, and does not expire for 80 years, according to the original terms.
Great Britain is endeavouring to hold Persia to her pledge.

Persia, on the other hand, says she is not bound to protect the British interests in the oil territory and has given warning that she is not responsible for any damage done. In response, the British Government has sent her a sharp note stating that in the view of London, Persia is still responsible for any harm which comes to any property of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company.

Further, it is stated that Persia is doing damage to the company's interests, which is condemned by Great Britain to have been within the power of Persia to prevent. The Persian Government will be asked to compensate the company for the damage done.

WHEN RUSSIA WENT RED.

CLOSE-UP GLIMPSES.

FIRST as a British Consular officer in Moscow, and then as head of a British Mission in 1918, M.R.H. Bruce Lockhart occupied, as it were, a seat in the orchestra stalls throughout the drama of the Russian revolution. His book, "Memories of a British Agent," is a spirited account of his experiences before and during the Red "Terror."

Among the interesting disclosures made is the fact that Lord Kitchener's impending visit to Russia was known in Moscow a full fortnight beforehand. On May 24, 1916, the British Ambassador told Mr. Lockhart the news in strictest confidence.

"With the next few days half a dozen Russian journalists must have telephoned to ask me if the news were true. At my wife's weekly reception Gen. Wogak, a charming, cultured soldier, announced the visit, with its date and object, as if no secrecy were needed."

Long before Kitchener had sailed from Scotland the news of his mission was common property in both St. Petersburg and Moscow. I quote these indiscretions merely as an instance of the leakages that were so frequent in the Russia of those war days. I do not suggest that they bore any relation to the fate of the ill-starred Hampshire."

Writes of Lenin.

There are striking vignettes of the Russian revolutionary leaders, from Lenin downwards, whom the author met. Of Lenin he writes: "He looks, at first glance, more like a provincial grocer than a leader of men. Yet, in those steely eyes, there was something that arrested my attention, something in that quizzing, half-contemptuous, half-smiling look which spoke of boundless self-confidence and conscious superiority."

A tribute is paid to Trotsky's physical courage in facing an infuriated mob of armed sailors, whom he lashed with invective, sending them linking away like beaten curs.

As chronicled by Mr. Lockhart, the events leading up to the revolution moved with the inexorable march of a Greek tragedy, which human effort seemed powerless to avert.

A TRIUMPH IN TELEVISION.

English Broadcast To Denmark.

A successful television transmission from the British Broadcasting Corporation in England to Denmark has been received at Copenhagen.

In the presence of a number of specially invited technical experts a television broadcast from England of pictures and voices was picked up by the Vestfronten wireless station. It was re-transmitted by land lines to Copenhagen, where it was projected on to a screen about 3 feet by 7 feet.

The pictures and voices were transmitted separately, and were then perfectly synchronised before projection. Both the voices and the pictures were remarkably clear, even the details of the faces being easily seen.

In the author's judgment the revolution came "because the patience of the Russian people broke down under a system of unparalleled inefficiency and corruption. No other nation would have stood the privations which Russia stood for anything like the same length of time."

Allied Intervention.

The Allied intervention at Archangel, when fewer than 1,200 men were landed, is branded as "unbelievable folly, a blunder comparable with the worst mistakes of the Crimean War... disastrous both to our prestige and to the fortunes of those Russians who supported us."

Of the British Naval Mission that visited Russia Mr. Lockhart writes:

"The navy may now have fallen on evil days, but my own experience of British naval officers abroad has been of the happiest. Far better than army officers do they understand the gentle art of placating and impressing the foreigner. They can relax without loss of dignity. There are few brass hats and few brass lieutenants among them."

Among other political events of the period, Mr. Arthur Henderson's visit to Russia and his disillusionment are frankly described. The book as a whole is an important contribution to the literature of the Russian revolution.

Miss Bankhead's New Styles

SEVERAL new styles, both in dress and beauty, are shown by Tallulah Bankhead in her new Paramount picture, "The Devil and the Deep."

According to critics, the most sophisticated coiffure of the season is worn in this picture by Miss Bankhead. The hairdress is achieved by parting the hair at the side, drawing it back of the ears, without the benefit of waves and permitting the long ends to be curled up tightly to form a symmetrical puff that terminates at the ears.

As regards dress, Miss Bankhead is of the opinion that ostrich trimming will take the place of fur for the Summer season. She uses a froth of white ostrich as a border on an exquisite evening cape, which is fashioned of enu-de-nill velvet. Jackets headed with tiny lines of strass are latest rage in Hollywood. Tallulah also shows one in black with a frock of roma crepe, in the same production.

British Canned Goods Highly Appreciated.

THE progress of the British canned goods trade appears to be in a flourishing condition at home and vast strides have been made in the producing of good quality delicacies especially in the English fruits and vegetables.

Messrs. Smedley of Wisbech, England, produce a wonderful selection of home grown fruits and vegetables, and have attained many awards for the perfect class of canned eatables they manufacture.

Containing the perfect home side flavour these fruits and vegetables of many kinds, can be obtained locally or for the sole agents Messrs. Loxley & Co.

"Snoods" Come Back Into Vogue

AN old children's hairdressing fashion has been adopted lately by some of the smartest young Mayfair hostesses. Old-fashioned "Snoods" or narrow bands of ribbon, are being worn across the top of the head and slipped under the hair at the back of the neck. All the hair is brushed straight back under the snood, and ends in curls behind the ears and in the nape of the neck, so that the effect from the front is reminiscent of the original illustrations of "Alice in Wonderland."

Modern "snoods" are made in velvet and lame ribbon, sometimes with tiny crystal flowers mounted on them, and an exquisite one was of tiny feathers sewn on an invisible tulle band. This is rather a "young" fashion, but very attractive.

Another charmingly decorative fashion is to wear real flowers in one's hair for evenings. Lady Lavery is fond of this fashion. Sometimes she wears a wreath of violets—an admirable foil to her auburn hair—and quite lately she appeared with a couple of camellias tucked behind one ear.

The Long Skirt

EVEN with the longer coats of this Autumn, afternoon and dinner frocks have an annoying habit of appearing below the hem, entirely spoiling the line of the coat. Elastic girdles to match any coloured frock can now be bought for a few pence, and with one of these fastened round the waist the frock can be pouched until the correct length is found. As the fastening of the girdle is of the screw-together type there is no danger either of this catching in the material of the frock or the elastic flying apart. It is wise not to have the girdle too tight or creases may result.

Purple for WrapsCork Carpets

COLOURS, too, play a large part in the character of the Winter clothes. Purple is an important element. This is true both of actual purple shades, which are shown in bright or deeper tones for afternoon dresses, evening gowns and wraps, and of the purplish tints which appear in so many of the reds employed. There is some bright red, but most of the shades of this colour are dark and winy in aspect, bordeaux or almost plum in tone, and with them there is much old rose pink suggestive of mauve. Dark greens are also important, appearing in evening as well as day-time clothes. Browns are strong on the sports side.

SOMETHING new in the way of a dinner frock has been introduced to Hollywood by Helen Hayes. Miss Hayes wears a charming black silk crepe frock which hangs very straight and full from the high-waist line. The bodice is in the new pin-frock style, and the under-bodice is of quilted black lace, with short puffer sleeves.

Last Year's Hat Made New

Steam Removes The Creases.

THIS is to be a "velvet" season, so if you have a last year's hat in the cupboard, made in this fashionable material, bring it out and let us see how we can freshen it up.

First of all, a thorough brush the way of the pile with a hat whisk, which you will find is more effective than an ordinary brush, should show good results. Or you might fix the furniture brush attachment to the vacuum cleaner and employ that on your hat.

To remove creases and crushed marks hold the spots to the steam from the spout of a kettle until the velvet is slightly damp. This raises the pile. Then brush gently the way of the pile with a clean brush and set aside to dry.

This method is also worth trying when your hat has been spotted by rain.

Badly creased velvet ribbon can be treated in the same way. Pile aside away, this time, move it slowly through the steam, and then, still pile outwards, draw it tightly over the up-turned edge of a hot iron. This will help both to bring up the pile and to stretch it out flat.

Finally, brush it and hang to dry. If you want to alter your hat, and you want to avoid marking the velvet, use steel pins, not ordinary ones, for pinning folds, and mercerised cotton or sewing silk.—P. H.

In the early days of America, when to have good homes required much ingenuity and good taste on the part of the housewife, a rug was produced by an ingenious lady that through the years has worn so well as to be still a coveted possession of those fortunate enough to have inherited an original.

The demand for these is so great that a substitute has been made by some clever Chinese women under the tutelage of a lovely descendant of a Colonial Dame. These rugs are being handled exclusively in Hong Kong by us. We have facsimile copies of some of the best examples of the New England hooked rug—a new shipment having just arrived. They are as inexpensive as they are lovely-looking, scarcely half as much as any other hand-made rug. They fit well with our furniture and are eminently suitable for well-furnished English and American homes. Come in and look them over.

Sincerely yours,

M. J. P. H.

GOSANO BROTHERS GIVE SAINTS VICTORY.

Weak Club Forwards Miss Chances.

A LARGE crowd gathered at Happy Valley and witnessed a stirring game in which St. Joseph's, though not playing up to their usual standard, defeated the Club by the side goal in three.

The Gosano brothers again played a big part in the Saints victory, "A.V." on yesterday's form, leaving no doubt as to who will fill Howe's place in the coming Interpol.

The Saints deserved their victory, for, with the exception of the last quarter of an hour in the first half when they showed signs of weakening, they were definitely the superior side.

The Saints were again without Leonard, and S. Souza was brought in at right back, but he was not strong enough to hold the strong left wing of the Club; his partner, Gomes, gave Williams little rope. Fernandes was the best of the Saints halves as Costa, in trying to watch Howe too closely could not play his usual combining game with B. Gosano. The latter stood out amongst the forwards, playing the fourth half-back game.

A. V. Gosano played a great game at centre-forward and swung the ball out to such effect that most of the play was on the wings. Beltrao did his work quietly but well and the wingers both gave an improved display.

Rodger was safe in goal and gave his usual splendid performance. S. Strango was the better of the two backs, his interception being excellent.

"Andy" Duncan was a tireless worker both in defence and attack but Hynes is not a centre-half; in defence he did all that was asked of him, but he rarely set his forwards in motion with necessary passes. Skinner played well.

The Club's chief fault lay with their forwards.

Dominy was injured in the early part of the game; Williams was too well watched; and Howe showed poor form. The real menace came from Fowler and E. Strange, the latter being the best forward, his speed and ball control often causing great anxiety to the Saints defenders.

Two minutes before the whistle for half time Dominy opened the scoring, shooting through a crowd of players. The Club deserved their lead as they had been the more aggressive side during the opening exchanges. Immediately after the restart Howe missed a great chance to add to the score, and the Saints went to the other end to equalise, Beltrao placing the ball between the backs for B. Gosano to beat Rodger with a fast ground shot. The two Gosanos indulged in a passing movement which culminated in A. V. Gosano giving the Saints the lead with a good shot.

P. O. Dibb lined out the following team: St. Joseph's—Marques; S. Souza, Gomes; Victor, Costa, Fernandes; Souza, Beltrao, A. V. Gosano, B. Gosano and Sabban. Club—Rodger, Martin, S. Strango; Skinner, Hynes, Duncan; Williams, Dominy, Howe, E. Strange and Fowler.

JOHNSTON SCORES THREE IN POLICE WIN.

Channings Shines Against Fast Recreio Side.

THE POLICE had no easy match with the fast Recreio side, and had to keep over on the alert to enable them to record their second win by 5 goals to 3.

With constant practice the Recreio combination are gradually improving, and with better understanding, they should, in the near future score their first win. Gomes was responsible for opening the Recreio's account, a splendid raid by the Recreio forwards finding the Police defenders spread-eagled and a goal in arrears.

The Police were not long in retaliating, and C. Ellis equalised. With Johnston leading the Police attack, and Stephens lively inside men, the Police's subsequent play was a masterpiece. Johnston's third goal came as the result of a brilliant run down the wing by Kirkham and a good centre. Kowloon's second goal found the Lincoln defence spread-eagled. Eastman went through and centred for Nolema to meet the ball with a first-time shot, but although Heath got his hands to the ball he only succeeded in deflecting the ball further into the net.

Stephens made no mistake with a shot from the edge of the penalty area to give the Police the lead soon after the resumption, but the Recreio rallied finely, and success came their way when Rocha finished off a splendid short-passing movement by notting from close in.

With Johnston and Gomes scoring a goal each, the teams still found themselves on level terms. But the Police, towards the end combined better and with Channings sending up well-placed passes, their forwards sent in shots from all angles. Minette held a hard drive from Stephens, but was slow in parting with the ball, and Johnston dashed in to bundle both the custodian and the ball into the net to give the Police the lead. A scrimmage around the Recreio goalmouth ended in Johnston scrambling the ball into the net to register his "hat trick."

Recreio—Minister, Oliveira, Ogley, Marques, Figueiredo, Aguiar, Gomes, Santos, Guterres, Rocha and Ribeiro.

Police—Perkins, Blackburn, Brittain, Minty, Channings, Jessop, T. Pile, Moss, Johnston, Stephens and C. Pile.

RIDLEY'S "HAT TRICK" FOR LINCOLNS.

Kowloon Score First But Lose.

IN a closely-contested game the Lincolns beat Kowloon by 4 goals to 2 on the Railway ground. It was the feeble attempts of the Kowloon forwards that lost them the match.

Will as leader of the attack was at no time good enough to beat either Ash or Hackett, the latter deputising for Turner, who played at right half. Little was seen of the Kowloon wing men; not because they had no support, but because they insisted on waiting for the ball instead of going for it, with the result that a Lincoln man always intervened. The attempts of Nolema and Blake, the inside men, were easily subdued by the Lincoln halves.

The Kowloon wing half backs, Bliss and Watkins were the two best Kowloon players on the field and did exceedingly well in breaking up repeated Lincoln attacks. Kowloon had Walker in its left back, and his first-time kicking was a feature of the game, but in close tackles with the Lincoln forwards he was slow, and, like Wells, was inclined to become shaky.

Gurevitch had not much chance with the shots that beat him, but he has lost the confidence he has displayed in the past.

The Lincolns are not the same team since they lost the services of their pivot, Barber, but Cork, their erstwhile left half, played an admirable game in the centre, and with a well combined forward line, they fully deserved their victory.

Ridley was the most successful forward of the Lincolns, and, after Nolema had opened the scoring for Kowloon with a penalty shot, Ridley proceeded to register the "hat trick."

GOOD DEFENSIVE WORK.

Kowloon were on top after the Lincolns had equalised, but apart from Bliss finding the side of the net, their forwards were rarely dangerous. Gurevitch fell in attempting to save Ridley's shot and in the scrimmage around the goalmouth, the Kowloon goal keeper threw the ball out for Ridley to get his head to it and send it into the net. Kowloon changed over a forward in arrears, after holding the Lincolns on the defensive for the majority of the opening half.

Ash and Hackett gave nothing away, being clean and confident in the tackling, and sure in their passing.

Ridley's third goal came as the result of a brilliant run down the wing by Kirkham and a good centre. Kowloon's second goal found the Lincoln defence spread-eagled. Eastman went through and centred for Nolema to meet the ball with a first-time shot, but although Heath got his hands to the ball he only succeeded in deflecting the ball further into the net.

Leading by goals to 2, Malpas placed the issue beyond doubt when he delivered a fine centre near Malpas. Mr. V. V. Balgoin lined out the following team: Kowloon—Gurevitch, Wells, Walker, Watkins, McKelvie, Ellis, Eastman, Nolema, Bliss, Blake and Hackett. Lincoln—Cork, Kirkham, Hackett, Ash, Hynes, Johnston, Stephens, Beltrao, Gomes, Victor, Costa, Fernandes, Souza, Beltrao, A. V. Gosano, B. Gosano and Sabban.

Second Division.

EWO GOALKEEPER SAVES TWO PENALTIES.

EWO were decidedly lucky to share the spoils with a strong Navy eleven. Had the Navy fielded a full team in the first half instead of playing ten men, they would have probably registered a comfortable win.

The Navy kicked off and were soon on the offensive. They were awarded a penalty kick within the first few minutes, but Chadwick failed to convert.

Ewo retaliated and during a melee in the Navy goalmouth, Heath, a Navy defender, had the misfortune to put the ball through his own goal to give Ewo the lead. Good work by the Navy half backs resulted in play being transferred and Benton went through to bring the scores level.

The Navy were now much the better team, despite their handicap.

It was a splendid game with neither team holding any real advantage. A foul on Higgins, the Lincolns' centre forward, by a Borderers' defender, within a few minutes of the interval, resulted in Lt. Hocquard converting the penalty kick to give the Lincolns the lead which they held until the final whistle.

cap, but they could not break through, Low Yun-tong playing a splendid game in the Ewo goal, and the interval came with no further scoring.

In the second half Baker opened up a Navy raid, and Chadwick gave his side the lead with a good shot.

Ewo recovered and were awarded a penalty. Woodman saved well and Ho Yun-lin severely harassed the goal-keeper, and a scramble in front of goal resulted in a second penalty, which Ho Yun-lin converted. Towards the end the Navy were awarded another penalty but Low brought off a grand save and cleared.

Cpl. Knight lined out the following teams:— Navy:—Woodman, Rivers, Heath, Baker, Renshaw, Ashman, Warner, Benton, Chadwick, Sayer and Parsons. Ewo:—Low Yun-tong, Ma Ping-chong, Wong Che-pun, To Ho-hang, Ng Fook-hung, H. T. To, Ho Yun-lin, Lai Tachol, Chan Yun-fai, Au Ping-wing and Lai Kong-kai.

CLUB WELL BEATEN BY ARTILLERY.

AT Sookunpoo, the Artillery beat the Club by the odd goal in three.

G. Duncan was the only Club forward to look at all dangerous, but he was poorly supported. Greenshields was the outstanding player on the day's play and kept the Club's inside trio well in hand. The Club, however, managed to get the ball within shooting distance and G. Duncan beat Holmes with a splendid drive to open the scoring.

The Gunners opened up the play a little more and the Club went through another harassing period until Sloan managed to step in clear, but the ball was soon back again and Frearson made no mistake from close in. The Club halves were working like trojans, Boyd and Puncheon being outstanding both in tackling and feeding their forwards, but the forwards spoilt almost every opportunity that came their way through lack of ball control.

In the second half, the Gunners had matters practically their own way. Some real heavies were directed at Fogwill but he managed to clear his lines well, until Hardy's shot which curled into the net to give the Gunners the lead.

R. A. A. Holmes, Leadbeater, Lowen, Hill, Greenshields, Harris, Snooks, Hardy, Frearson, Walker and Gibbons. Club:—Fogwill, Kirovsky, Sloan, Poutoloff, Puncheon, Boyd, Sharp, G. Duncan, Raiton, Low and Farrow.

BORDERERS LOWER COLOURS TO LINCOLNS.

WITH the defeat of the Borderers last week, yesterday's encounter at the Chatham Road between the Borderers and the Lincolns appeared to have a bearing on the ultimate winners of this division. The Borderers lost the Athletic now lead the table by five points.

It was a splendid game with neither team holding any real advantage. A foul on Higgins, the Lincolns' centre forward, by a Borderers' defender, within a few minutes of the interval, resulted in Lt. Hocquard converting the penalty kick to give the Lincolns the lead which they held until the final whistle.

The Lincolns goal had a narrow escape soon after the interval when Marshfield sent in a shot which Deacon fumbled in handling. The ball spun against the upright, but was cleared in the nick of time.

The Lincolns raided well, but Hocquard on the left was starved when unmarked, and Suter, and Mountford cleared well to keep the Lincolns out.

Numerous corners fell to the Borderers, but they could not press home their advantage. Hamblin was through for them, but his shot rebounded from the upright with Deacon beaten.

E. R. A. Anderson lined out the following teams:— Lincolns:—Deacon, Rosen, Collough, Bacon, Worral, Robson, Clayton, Barnes, Higgins, McGuiness and Hocquard. Borderers:—Williams, Mountford, Suter, Court, Babington, Wallace, Pritchard, Morris, Hamblin, Marshfield and Matthews.

From the start, the South China players had the Kowloon on the defensive and within a few minutes, Pau Ka-ping bent Cook with a good shot from well in.

The Kowloon forwards showed poor combination and lost many chances due to faulty misunderstanding. South China were the better side throughout, but they wasted glorious opportunities by dilly-dallying instead of shooting.

In the second half Pau Ka-ping, whose play was outstanding, was the general instigator of the attacks made on the Kowloon goal, but he was poorly backed up by his colleagues. The Chinese players maintained the upper hand, but their shooting was erratic. Stavoloy went near to bringing the scores level, his shot hitting the upright for a defender to clear.

ATHLETIC WIN BY ONLY GOAL SCORED.

AT Caroline Hill, the Athletic were a little better than Tsung Tsin and recorded a narrow win by a solitary goal.

The Athletic were the first to settle down, and a drive by Shek Pui-tun from well out entered the net to give the Athletic the lead. The Tsung Tsin left wing was dangerous, two beautiful centres being simply wasted through the forwards not following up. Tsung Tsin, however, tried hard for the equaliser, but their forwards were erratic in their shooting when in front of goal. The same could be said of the Athletic whose efforts to increase the lead were spoiled by wild shooting.

SAINTS SECURE FIRST POINTS OF SEASON.

ST. Joseph's secured their first league points when they defeated Eastern at Happy Valley by three goals to one.

The game was uninteresting but more even than the score would suggest, for in the second half the Chinese attacked for long periods without meeting with success, weak shooting robbing them of a glut of goals.

The Saints were the first to score, Souza bending Sze with a good shot. The Chinese soon equalised. Ho Chi Yeung sending O Yin-hin away for the latter to cut in and beat Hussain from close in. After an even spell, Souza headed the ball in to give his side the lead again.

Eastern dominated the play in the second half but could not score, though O Yin-hin was the outstanding forward on the field. From a breakaway, Omar went through to score a good goal.

Third Division.

RADIO'S SIXTH WIN.

Of two poor teams at King's Park, the Radio were better than the Recreio and eventually ran out winners by 4 goals to 2. Singh obtained three of the Radio goals, while Aycock netted the fourth. Xavier and Barretto, replied for the Recreio, the latter scoring from a penalty kick.

BORDERERS BEAT R.A.S.C.

AT Sookunpoo, the Borderers, by virtue of their better understanding and combination, accounted for the Service Corps by 4 goals to 2.

The Corps scored first through Sands, but their success was short-lived, the Borderers equalising through Fortey within a few minutes. The Borderers increased their lead through Purcell, and in the second half the Borderers went further ahead through Nelson and Fortey, while Sands netted again for the Corps.

ENGINEERS BEAT VARSITY.

The Engineers, fielding a very weak team, beat the Varsity who fielded only ten players, by two clear goals.

The football served up was of a very poor standard, both sides missing easy chances, the Varsity inside forwards being the worst offenders.

Whitting scored in the first half and Pegg added the second just before the final whistle.

R.A.F. SURPRISE S. CHINA.

The Air Force continued to show improved form, and scored some thing in the names of a surprise by defeating South China by the odd goal in three.

Cleanliness is next to Personality.

No matter how much a person uses soap it does not mean that cleanliness follows; Soaps vary... as you know, from heavy washing soaps to radned highly perfumed toilet tablets. In those qualities that vary so much lies the value of the Soap both as a cleansing agent for the absorbers of personal oils and fats which extrude through the pores and as a solvent of the dust and greasy matter which reach the skin through the atmosphere or from things touched during work or play. Then there are the qualities which tend to heal and protect the skin from small cuts or infection, and others that feed it with oils to give it beauty of texture.

Mysoore Sandal Soaps have all these qualities correctly balanced to cleanse, protect and feed in the most perfect manner possible, being made from the oils of Sandalwood used for thousands of years by Indian women whose beauty of skin is proverbial. Particularly for sensitive skins use.

TRIBUTE TO KNIGHT OF POLITICS

Lord Birkenhead's Memory Praised Rode Gallantly Into His Party's Wars

ONE of the greatest tributes ever paid by one statesman to another was heard in the debating hall of the Oxford Union Society, when Sir John Simon unveiled a memorial bust of the late Earl of Birkenhead.

Sir John was a fellow undergraduate of Lord Birkenhead at Wadham College, and both men were residents of the Union.

The bust is of bronze and takes its place in the Hall with those of Marquis Curzon of Kedleston, the Marquis of Salisbury, Mr. Gladstone, and the Earl of Oxford and Asquith.

Sir John Simon, who had a warm reception, said: "No place could be so fittingly chosen for the setting up of a permanent memorial to the late Lord Birkenhead than the debating hall of this Union Society."

"Not only was it here that he exercised the marvellous powers of speech which were characteristics of him through life, but, as we know so well, throughout his crowded and varied career he bestowed on the Oxford Union Society a devotion which was so constant as it was sincere."

"It is now forty years since I first heard Mr. F. E. Smith, of Wadham, take part in a Union debate. On many occasions since then I have indulged in the reflection, as I crossed swords with him in the House of Commons or the Law Courts, how little he changed as the years passed in his facility for political controversy, his terrifying command of the pointed phrase, his unrivalled felicity in riposte, whether by way of banter or savage criticism, his boldness in assertion so overwhelming that one found that disproof at a later stage was too late."

Gay Insouciance.
"Then there was what I would describe as his gay insouciance, which was founded on his love of battle or contempt for all conventions, his mordant humour and his high animal spirit. Those were qualities which we who were his contemporaries mark as his earliest effort."

"The year before I came up to Oxford he had already established himself as a fixed star in the union by his retort, in a maiden speech, to the distinguished visitor—a much-respected apostle of temperance, Sir Wilfrid Lawson—who, as an example, poured the contents of his wine cellar down the drain."

"This surprising undergraduate pleasantly observed that when in the future state, he found himself reclining on Abraham's bosom, and the message came to him from another place, sent by the distinguished visitor craving for a cup of water, he should reply: 'No, not a drop: you have dissipated more generous liquor.'"

"Our friend was a specialist in maiden speeches. There is more than one Parliamentarian here to-day—Sir Austen Chamberlain and Lord Hugh Cecil among them—who will never forget the impression produced by an effort of that kind in March, 1906, when the youthful member for the Walton Division of Liverpool was called upon to go through the dreaded ordeal of making his first speech in the House of Commons."

The New Champion.
"The Conservative party had suffered a tremendous reverse, and for the time being had lost its leader through the defeat of Mr. Balfour at Manchester. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain was stricken with the beginning of his last illness. The Conservative party was reduced in representation to a small handful, and hordes of Liberals spread themselves over the benches in the House, and even invaded those seats properly dedicated to the Opposition."

"It was in these circumstances that there arose from the ranks of the depleted and dispirited Conservative party this debonair young man, who in the course of half an hour distributed his sarcasm to all and sundry, but mostly to the revered leaders, with such withering effect and such complete self-assurance that when he sat down the Conservative party realised that there was hope for them yet."

"The Government realised that here was a new force determined to give them a hard fight, and 'on the ranks of Treachery could scarce forbear to cheer.' There has never been in memory, and I doubt whether in Parliamentary records of all time, so astonishing an exhibition of youthful vigour and determination, or an expression of choicer language used more admirably for the purpose which my honourable friend had in mind."

Loyalty And Friendship.
"No one," went on Sir John, exhibited more wholeheartedly and sincerely the qualities which go by the name of loyalty and friendship. He had many and obvious faults which are easy to point to. Such remorseless irony as his sometimes bears hard on the victim who cannot reply, but he held the duties of friendship and loyalty as among the first duties of life, and he never allowed power in controversy or debate to obscure the attachments he held for the places and people he loved."

"He stood up for and defended those whom he thought, for the time, had fallen under the shadow of unpopularity with a simple loyalty to friendship and respect for truth which ought to be remembered for all time."

Sir John concluded by saying that, just as he left London, he had received a letter from Mr. Winston Churchill regretting his inability to be present, and paying a tribute to their late friend.

Gallant Rider.
Sir Austen Chamberlain said that it was fitting that they should have asked an ex-officer of the sister union at Cambridge to come and pay a tribute to Lord Birkenhead.

"It is not easy for me to say anything in addition to what Sir John has said without detracting from the noble tribute he has paid to our friend's memory," he went on. "Sir John knew Lord Birkenhead in his Oxford days, I knew him only when he entered the House."

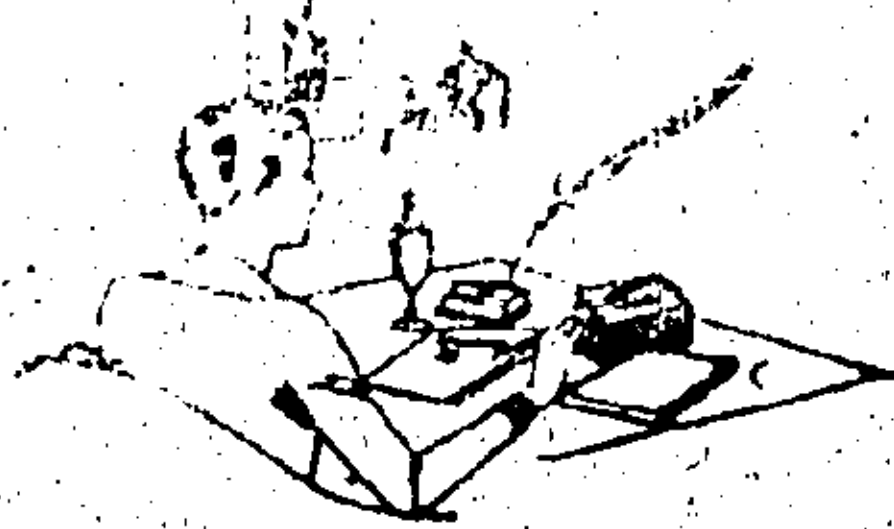

"There is a side of F. E. Smith which may strike many of you, modern as you are. He lived in some respects in an earlier century. You can see him riding with the Three Musketeers with cloak and with sword and not disgracing that company."

"To him life was an adventure, and he rode through it gallantly. (Cheers.)"

"But you would be making a fatal and cruel mistake to think that he was an adventurer."

"I remember a division of first-class party importance in which he challenged the policy of the Government on the day. It was on the question of restoring self-government to the Transvaal and the Orange Free State."

"In spite of the pressure of party whips and of political friends at a time when he was making his way at the Bar, F. E. Smith alone in his party had the courage and foresight to vote against his party in that critical division."

The
GLOBE TROTTER'S DIARY.

One of the most remarkable features of Wesley's Chapel in City-road, which was opened just 154 years ago and was the scene of anniversary celebrations recently, is that the pillars in the entrance hall were once the masts of battleships.

They were given to Wesley when he built the chapel by one of George III's Ministers, and came from the naval shipyard at Deptford. At first they held up the gallery, but they were removed to the entrance when the task of supporting the gallery was transferred to the 111 iron pillars which put in when the centenary of Wesley's birth was celebrated.

An Irish Hostess.
The death of Lady Ross, wife of Sir John Ross, the last, but one of the Lord Chancellors of Ireland, will recall to many an Irish social life which is now ended. Sir John Ross was a North of Ireland man and his home was at Rathfriland, near Drogheda. He was a member of the House of Commons and was a prominent figure in the Irish political scene.

One remembers Lady Ross as a stately figure in her drawing-room in Fitzwilliam-square, and also at Stillorga, their house just outside Dublin, where she was happy with her garden, her books, and her grandchildren.

Her son, Major Ronald Ross, is M.P. for Londonderry; Mrs. Ross's sister married the Bishop of Norwich.

Hunting In London.
The formation and first meet of the new Pinner Draghounds are a reminder that the site of London itself, not so long ago as many people would imagine, was a Paradise for the lover of field sports.

Court. The Prince of Wales (King Edward) was out. From Denham Court we ran past Pinner to the foot of Harrow Hill and thence to Wormwood Scrubs, where I well remember seeing the Duc de Chartres, his horse bogged, with a wire fence twisted round its legs. We took the deer at Paddington Station and accompanied the Prince of Wales to Marlborough House, riding through Hyde Park and down Constitution Hill."

Epsom's Flying Squad.
No new claims for endurance records having been put forward for some time past, one ventures to advance that of "The Flying Squad," the veteran foursome of the Epsom Golf Club. The combined ages of this foursome, which now plays three or four days a week, totals 818 years. It consists of Mr. E. W. Garrett, president of the club, aged 82; Mr. B. S. Cunliffe, aged 81; Mr. J. Russell Hopper, aged 78; and Mr. W. H. Hopper, aged 77.

Club Rugby Triumph

In the opening minute of the game was a feature of the match. From a scrum near the centre, MacIntosh got the ball cleanly away, but the three-quarter line did not make a great deal of ground. When the ball reached Ferguson he had more than half the field to run through, but by well-judged side-stepping and swerving he crossed the line to score between the posts. McLellan, however, failed to gather the goal points from an easy shot.

Lammert showed a return to his old speed, but he was generally too close to the touch line to be really effective. In the last second of the game he had his best opportunity to score, but a wild pass from Griffiths spoiled it. Lammert was standing unmarked not ten yards from the Navy line when the ball came out, but a belated and erratic pass from Griffiths went high over his head.

Whitham at full back, but saw little to do, but what he did, he did well. Martin at full-back for the Navy, performed creditably, his handling being particularly good.

The Navy forwards worked hard throughout the game, but saw little of the ball in the tight scrums, with the exception of one or two instances in the second half. Robertson being completely out-played by McElroy. This weight of their pack was lighter than the Club pack, and they were frequently pushed off the ball or left the victims of cleverly executed wheals. Watson, who had to leave the field for five minutes in the second half, after being winded, played a good game, as did Doggett, who put in some splendid footwork.

NAVY WINGS HELPLESS.
In the Navy three-quarter line, Lockley and Ryder were outstanding, but seldom did the line work smoothly-enough to give the wings a chance.

The only points in the first half came from FERGUSON'S brilliant try, although both he and Lammert went near, only the deadly tackling of the Navy backs preventing additional scoring.

After the interval, Lammert almost repeated Ferguson's performance, but went out into touch. It was shortly after this that Watson had to go off, and during his absence the Club again got over, TURNER breaking through to score near the flag. McLellan's kick again failed, going very near to the post from a difficult angle.

TWO PLAYERS OFF.
Following this reverse, the Navy attacked for a while, the teams being evened up by the absence of Griffiths, who left the field after the second try to attend to Watson. Following the return of the two players, the Club took play to the Navy '25, Ferguson getting away down the touch-line. He passed in to Turner, who cross-kicked just in front of the goal, but Garrod failed to gather and the opportunity to score was lost, Martin securing and kicking to touch.

Ferguson was responsible for the last try of the game, which came in the last five minutes. He went through with a strong burst of speed, but was hemmed in when near the line. He managed to transfer the ball to MCLELLAN, who was almost in front of the goal, and the latter dashed over to register the third try, to which he added the goal points.

Hong Kong Ladies Win Caer Clark Game

Saints Concede Only One Goal On Sand Ground

"Y" LADIES LOSE TO RECREIO

THE CAER CLARK CUP competition commenced yesterday afternoon when the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Club, holders of the trophy for the past three years, defeated St. Andrew's Club Ladies' their nearest rivals, by the only goal scored, and the Club de Recreio Ladies' just managed to gain the verdict over the "Y" Ladies' at King's Park.

B. Walker, the centre forward of the "Y" Ladies' twisted her right knee when attempting too big a stride while running. She retired from the game a quarter of an hour before the termination.

THE Hong Kong Ladies, undefeated champions for the past two seasons in the Caer Clark Cup, rose to the occasion, when they defeated the St. Andrew's Club Ladies by a goal to nil on the Marina ground. Their victory is even the more creditable, as Hong Kong are not used to playing on a sand ground.

B. M. Pope, one of the best women centre-half backs in the Colony, fell sick on Friday and was an absentee from the Hong Kong team. D. Robertson, who deputised, was very impressive, and marked M. Woolley, the Saints skipper, extremely well.

Hong Kong owed their victory to a stalwart half back line. Their wingers were more speedy than M. Churn and M. Chan, for the Saints. The Saints appeared very keen, ed up, but their main fault lay in relying too much on M. Woolley, who was too well marked by D. Robertson to be at all dangerous.

R. Rose, the Saints custodian was unfortunate to let one goal in, as in the second half, she saved a number of scorers from M. Alun Jones, and J. Churchill, who, at inside left, made a brilliant debut for the Champions.

Hong Kong gained their goal in the first half, when M. Alun Jones beat R. Rose with a difficult shot. Shortly after, M. Woolley was unfortunate not to equalise, D. Robertson robbing her of possession in the nick of time. The Saints pressed, but hard as they tried, they could not score, M. Bird displaying keen anticipation in stopping shots from G. White and P. Gittins. There was no scoring in the second half, during which period exchanges were fairly even.

St. Andrew's:—R. Rose; I. Rogers, J. Smalley; J. Daniels, D. Robertson, C. Ferguson, E. Knott, M. Alun Jones, P. M. Harrop, J. Churchill, E. Blackburn.

RECREIO SCORE WINNER AGAINST TEN PLAYERS

Weak "Y" Wings

THE second Caer Clark game, that between the Club de Recreio and the "Y" Ladies was staged at King's Park, and was, for the most part, scrappy. The Recreio won by the odd goal in three.

The Recreio, who were the only team to hold Hong Kong to a drawn game last year at Sookunpoo, were stronger in defence, and their wing forwards were much faster. The "Y" forward line weakness lay in M. Tillery and G. Lakeman, the two wing players. In their defence A. Fowler was outstanding.

Opening on the offensive, the Recreio drew first blood through A. Alves. The "Y" rallied, and as a result of several raids made on the Recreio citadel, B. Walker equalised. Early on in the second half, B. Walker had the misfortune to twist her knee while running. She carried on in spite of the obvious pain, but was forced to retire 15 minutes from the game. Towards the middle of this half, the Recreio obtained their winning goal through C. Botelho.

Recreio:—D. Almeida, C. O'Connell, M. Bata, K. Hyndman, M. Alves, H. Gubner, M. Rose, C. Silva, C. Botelho, A. Alves and M. Domingos.
"Y":—M. Churn, M. Chan, M. Bird, M. Woolley, P. Gittins and M. Tillery.

SAINTS SCOUTS BEAT H. K. LADIES "A"

IN a friendly hockey match on the Naval ground, Happy Valley, yesterday afternoon, the St. Andrew's Scout Troop defeated the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Club by six goals to nil.

The Scouts led at the interval by two goals. MacNider (3), Woolley (2) and Bond scored for the Scouts, who were well served in defence by F. Wong. For the ladies, R. King was very impressive on the left wing, while A. Nicol, B. Franklin and E. O'Hagan shone in the defence.

MEDWAY HOLD Y.M.C.A. "A" TO DRAW.

The Y.M.C.A. "A" eleven and a team from H.M.S. Medway shared 4 goals at King's Park yesterday afternoon in a fast friendly match, which was marred only by the frequency of "kicks" against the sailors.

There was no score at half-time. In the second half W. J. Brown scored the Y's first point, while Baldwin secured the second goal finishing off a shot from Sommers which the Medway goalkeeper partially cleared. Nolaou was responsible for both the Medway's points.

BRIDGE NOTES

SOUND CALLING AN ESSENTIAL.Conservative Bids Profit Best.

SOUND calling is the very essence of Contract Bridge. It is the art which the beginner has to master. But judging from my experiences of some quite seasoned players, I would recommend the beginner to master also the kindred art of keeping silent. Again and again I have seen players—quite good players, too—go down through calling when really they have not a call in their hand. Time after time I have watched valuable penalties forfeited through the vain hope that partner might be able to raise a very doubtful intervening bid to game.

Long experience has convinced me that, while at Auction the slightly forward bidder has an advantage, at Contract it is the conservative caller who shows a margin at the end of the year.

Bids which should not have been made fall into two categories—those which preserve the opponents from the certainty of heavy penalties, and those which set an impossible task to partner.

I am dealing of course with bids which are academically correct; are made, that is, on hands which have the necessary honour trick value. Intervening bids on hands which are under strength, made for the sole purpose of frightening the opposition out of bidding game, are quite a different matter.

Here is a good example—from actual play—in the latter category. Both sides vulnerable. South deals and says No Bid, West One Spade, North holding:

Spades: 9
Hearts: A Q J x
Diamonds: Q 10 9 8
Clubs: K Q x x

Double.

I regard that as definitely a bad bid, yet how many players would have made it in similar circumstances.

It is bad because not one of North's suits is good enough to provide him with a refuge if his partner responds with One No Trump. (It is bad because One No Trump is the most likely response for South to make.) It is bad because North's hand will be strong only if the lead comes up to it, and to be able to lead up to it his unhappy partner (who has already passed) will have to secure the lead three or four times.

It would have been bad enough if North had been the second caller. His partner having already passed, his double was a crime.

On the other side, his hand is good enough to prevent his opponents from making game, given a reasonably equitable distribution. East presumably will not hold very much. Neither side has any score on the rubber game. From any point of view it was North's duty to pass.

The hands were as follows:

North.
Spades: 9
Hearts: A Q J x
Diamonds: Q 10 9 8
Clubs: K Q 9 8

West.
Spades: A J 8 7 3
Hearts: x x
Diamonds: A K x
Clubs: A x x

South.
Spades: Q 10 x x x
Hearts: x x x
Diamonds: x x
Clubs: x x x

East.
Spades: K x x
Hearts: K x x x
Diamonds: J x x x
Clubs: J x x

DISTINGUISHED NAMES IN LAW.Prince Of Russia.
Among Students.

London.
Several boaters of distinguished names appear amongst students of the Inns of Court who were successful at the Michaelmas Examination. Prince Levind Lieven is in the final list. He comes of a family which before the revolution was one of the wealthiest in Russia and one of four princely families entitled to be styled "Serene Highness."

The Earl of Drogheda passed in Criminal Law and Procedure and Roman Law. Lord Hyde, eldest son of the Earl of Clarendon, was successful in Roman Law. The Hon. David John Watson, second son of Baron Thankerton, a Lord of Appeal-in-Ordinary, and S. J. John Prikhard-Jones, who succeeded his father, the first baronet, in 1917, both figure as successful in Criminal Law and Procedure, and the former also in Constitutional Law and Legal History.

Mr. C. D. Aarvold, the international Rugby player and captain of the English team last year, took a second class in the Final Examination.

Of course the contract of One No Trump was not made. Here is another glaring example which was recently brought to my notice.

North.

Spades: A Hearts: K J x x
Diamonds: x x x
Clubs: K Q x x x

West.

Spades: x x
Hearts: x x
Diamonds: Q 10 x x x
Clubs: x x x

South.

Spades: Q x x x
Hearts: x x x
Diamonds: A K J x
Clubs: A x

East.

Spades: K J 10 9 8 7
Hearts: A Q 10 x
Diamonds: None
Clubs: x x x

Both sides vulnerable, South dealt and called One Diamond. West No Bid, North Two No Trumps (no it is bad because One No Trump is the most likely response for South to make). The bidding so far was unexceptionable. And the East, dazzled by his formidable sequence in Spades, his major tenace in Hearts and his void in Diamonds, must needs call Three Spades.

That call is absolutely unforgivable. The mere fact that East has not his statutory honour trick holding might possibly be overlooked in view of the position and the void in Diamonds. But one thing East should have seen at once was that in Spades he and his partner will make five tricks and not one more. He must make four Spades and the Ace of Hearts. West cannot have a single trick. Therefore East cannot get into his hand. Therefore East cannot get value for his tenaces. Therefore he must be four down, and as he is almost certain to be his partner 1,400—more than any doubled, it is going to cost him and his partner 1,400—more than any rubber is worth.

On the other side, if the hand is played in No Trumps, East will have the lead. If North has the King of Hearts, East will have two entries into his hand. There is just a chance that he might be able to prevent North-South scoring game.

I have dealt with those two hands and the moral they convey at some length, because sad experience has convinced me that an actual majority of average players would have made the grievous errors for which North and East were respectively responsible on these two occasions.

BRITISH RELICS OF BRONZE AGE.Notable Discovery
In Durham.

Newcastle.
An important archaeological discovery has been made near Bishop Middleham, Durham County. Quarrymen discovered a cave which was found to contain human remains of the Bronze and Early Iron Ages. In all, the bones of eight persons were found, as well as those of wolves, sheep, cattle and goats, and articles of metal and pottery.

Dr. Arthur Rastrick, of Armstrong College (Newcastle), Durham University, who helped excavate the bones, said to-day: "This discovery provides a distinct link between the Early Britons and the Red Indians and Tibetans of to-day."

The cave was found in a quarry less than a mile from the Durham Stockton-road, and Armstrong College was at once informed. The firm Messrs. Pease Partners, who were working the quarry, gave every facility for investigation, which was undertaken by Dr. Rastrick and Prof. Hickling, of the Geological Department of the college, and Miss Bates, of the British Museum.

AMERICA AND LEAGUE WILL CO-OPERATE

Closer Relationship Anticipated.

DEMOCRAT TRADITIONS.

(By Hebe Spaul.)
Although the election of Mr. Roosevelt as President of the United States is being acclaimed as a victory for the "Wets," the chief significance of his election for the rest of the world is the attitude his Government is likely to take towards world affairs.

Mr. Roosevelt will be the first Democrat to hold office since the late Mr. Woodrow Wilson, the founder of the League of Nations, was President. It is interesting to recall the fact that America's refusal to join the League which her President, more than anybody else, had brought into existence, was chiefly the result of the entry of America into the League being made a party issue. The Democrats favoured America's entry into the League whilst the Republicans generally were opposed to it. During the recent election the question of America's attitude to the League did not figure in either of the party programmes. Both parties, however, accepted the principle of a consultative pact which would enable the United States to confer—as they did during the recent Far Eastern crisis—with Members of the League and signatories of the Peace Pact as to the steps to be taken against an aggressor State. No dramatic change in American foreign policy is to be anticipated as the result of the American elections but in view of the traditional attitude taken by the Democrats to the question of the League we may confidently anticipate that the closer collaboration between America and the League initiated by President Hoover will be still further developed during Mr. Roosevelt's term of office.

It will be recalled that America

Europeans In Dire Want

Shanghai, Yesterday.
The growing unemployment among foreigners in Shanghai, was illustrated by the Russian, Vladimir, former member of the Imperial Bodyguard, attempting to commit suicide by jumping into the river opposite the French Consulate.

He was rescued by sampan men and he told police he was unable to face the responsibility of supporting his wife and daughter.

TECHNICAL SCHOOL FOR THE POOR.

Construction Starts In January.

January, 1933 will see the commencement of the erection of a Technical Institute for the Colony's poor children.

The Hong Kong Government has made a grant of the site of the old Tai Shing Paper Factory to the Technical Institute, and already the sum necessary for the erection of a Technical Institute has been collected.

Plans have already been drafted and construction will commence in January.

is co-operating with the League in dealing with all the major issues confronting the world to-day. She is represented at the World Disarmament Conference and will be represented at the World Economic Conference and, as has already been noted, during the Manchuria crisis she took her seat for the first time at the Council table of the League during the most crucial stage of the negotiations.

LORD METHUEN'S FAREWELL.

Dying Message To His Regiment.

London.

The serving officers and men of the Scots Guards have just received a touching reminder of the affection for his old regiment, which, to the end of his life, amounted almost to an obsession with the late Field-Marshal Lord Methuen.

After the stroke from which he died, the Field-Marshal relapsed into unconsciousness, and so remained until shortly before the end, when he rallied for a few minutes.

In those minutes of regained consciousness he motioned his nurse to bring him pencil and paper, and on it wrote his last message in these words:

"Good-Bye, Scots Guards," signing it in his characteristically scrawling hand.

The message was sent to regimental headquarters, and now a facsimile has been made, and copies forwarded to all ranks serving with the regiment.

ARRESTED AFTER 18 MONTHS.

Company Proprietor Charged.

James Lau, alias Lau Sui-sang, proprietor of the Cheapside Piano Company, appeared in the dock of the Central Police Court yesterday morning, before Mr. Wynne-Jones. He is charged with theft by false pretences of $1,175 from Mr. Leung Kit-san, private teacher, living at No. 82, Hennessy Road, Wanchai, on May 5, 1931.

Mr. O. E. C. Marton appeared on behalf of the prosecution while the defendant was represented by Mr. Leo D'Almada, Senr.

Accused was remanded for a week, his Warship granting bail in the sum of $1,500.

HIGH OFFICERS INDICTED BY NANTAO COURT

BIG BANK DEPOSITS.

Shanghai, Yesterday.

A sensation was created here when the Nantao Court announced the indictment of Marquis Li and Chen Fu-mu, deposed manager and superintendent respectively of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Co., held on charges arising out of agreements with the China Realty Company.

Five local Chinese banks allegedly have received deposits of 700,000 taels from Chen, equivalent to the sum paid for sanctioning the agreements.

Chen also is alleged to have deposited money under several fictitious names.

The court charges both men with unfaithfulness in the execution of their duties and infringement of Chinese navigation rights.

Kam Tin To Tai Po.

ON the afternoon of December 15 a walk was made between Au Tau and Tai Po, via Kam Tin, the Lam Tsun Valley and Tai Po Market. As this walk includes two of the best bird valleys in the Colony and does not include any stiff climbing a few directions are given here. We caught the 12.35 bus from the Mongkok pier which took us as far as Un Long, for 60 cents each. At this village we stepped into the Sheung Shui bus, which was waiting, and for a charge of 5 cents per head we were taken to Au Tau, where a road branches off to the right to Kam Tin. From here we walked to Tai Po Market and as we were too early for the train we continued our walk to Tai Po where we caught the 6.40 train for Kowloon.

Just before the walled village of Kam Tin is reached, a signpost will be noticed on the right of the road at the edge of the village green. One arm indicates a path to Tai Po. This path skirts the village on the south side and does not go through it. As the walk is a long one for a party including ladies, walkers are not advised to dawdle to inspect the walled villages but to set their faces firmly in the direction of Tai Po. If the path is followed to it will be impossible to go wrong for it leads to a low pass immediately to the north of a precipitous mountain crag. A good path turns off the main one to the south leading to a nursery situated on the northern slopes of Tai-mo-shan; do not follow this. From the top of the low pass the path leads down the Lam Tsun Valley through the villages of Lam Tsun and Hang Ha Po, across the old clapper bridge to the main road about 1 mile north of Tai Po Market.

Birds.

From the bus we commenced making a list of the birds identified and by the time we reached Au Tau we already had observed 12 species. These included the White-breasted Kingfisher, a beautiful large bird with maroon head, deep green-blue back and white breast; the Black-capped Kingfisher, similar in size to the other but with a black head white collar, pink breast and iridescent royal blue back. Later in the day we observed two more. White-breasted Kingfishers, one more Black-capped, five Little Blue Kingfishers and one Chinese Pied Kingfisher. The Little Blue is almost identical with our English species, black and white. We passed close to the locality from which we have recorded the Himalayan Pied Kingfisher but unfortunately we were then in a hurry and could not follow the stream bed to look for this fifth, and last, of our local Kingfishers. Never yet have we seen all 5 species in one afternoon and here was a golden opportunity missed.

The 28 species identified during the afternoon included also, 2 pipits, 3 bulbuls, the Japanese Robin Flycatcher, a Drongo, 2 mynahs, a Kestrel, 3 wagtails and an Egret (Paddy-bird) of what species we are not certain. The walk from Au Tau to the main road one mile from Tai Po Market took us 3 1/2 hours which should be the minimum time allowed.

Behind the Sun Wai Camp.

Friday afternoon was spent in the valleys and amongst the paddy fields to the north of the Sun Wai Camp. No count of the species of birds seen was made, a careful study being carried out of the smaller birds of the district. Stonechats and Japanese Robin Flycatchers were abundant and two or three flocks of the Chinese Spotted Munia were seen. This Munia, a Buzzard? Tallor Birds and two kinds of Bunting were 5 species which we had not observed on the previous day.

The Buntings.

One of the Buntings seen was the Siberian Gray-headed Bunting, Emberiza fucata fucata. It was observed on at least two occasions. It is easily recognized by its grey head, sparrow-coloured back and a very obvious chestnut patch on each cheek. The other Bunting seen was probably the Yellow-browed Bunting, Emberiza chrysophrys. It has a yellow streak over the upper parts olive gray, upper breast heavily streaked with black forming a distinct patch and lower breast and abdomen whitish.

FRENCH PRESIDENTS ARE POOR.

Despite Salaries Of Imposing Sound.

PALTRY 3,600,000 FRANCS.

Paris. When every new avenue for effecting economies in public expenditure is being explored, it is particularly interesting to come upon some disclosures about the salaries of high officials in Government posts. The facts concerning the emoluments of the President and his Ministers have hitherto been anything but widely known. In all the President receives 3,600,000 francs a year and this sum is divided into three sections: A grant of 1,800,000 francs payable in advance, in monthly instalments; an allowance of 900,000 francs for household expenses, payable in advance in quarterly instalments; and a further sum of 900,000 francs for travelling and other expenses, also paid in quarterly instalments and in advance.

Everyone knows that M. Poincaré left the Elysee a comparatively poor man. These sums, though they sound imposing, do not equal the expenditure imposed upon France's Presidents. Including the Premier, Ministers receive nominally 180,000 francs a year. This amount is not paid in advance and from it is deducted part of a Minister's emolument as senator or deputy. A deputy is paid 60,000 francs a year, a senator 120,000 francs. A Minister is paid 180,000 francs a year, a Premier 240,000 francs. A President of the Republic is paid 3,600,000 francs a year.

CHEAP TEA IS DANGEROUS.

Too Much Tannin Injures Health.

London, To-day. Britain is drinking a great deal of cheap foreign tea. Figures compiled by the Tea Brokers Association of London show that 6,250,000 lbs. of Java and Sumatra tea, which is inferior to the British grown tea of India and Ceylon, came to London last month, compared with 5,000,000 lbs. in August 1931.

The import duty of 4d. a lb. imposed last April has had practically no effect as Java has to pay a duty of 6d. to its own country—Holland—and it is therefore cheaper for the growers to send their tea to England. "Much of the cheap tea people are drinking is definitely bad for the health," a director of Moore Brothers, the oldest established City tea merchants, said. "It is coarse and contains a great deal of tannin. Unless a reasonably high tariff of at least double the present one, if not more, is put on foreign tea, cheap tea will keep on pouring into the country to the detriment of the British growers. British capital and of the health of those who drink it."

It is, however, rather more than a Ministerial allowance of 180,000 francs a year. A Minister is paid 180,000 francs a year, a Premier 240,000 francs. A President of the Republic is paid 3,600,000 francs a year.

PRETTY WEDDING AT UNION CHURCH.

Mr. H. G. Williams Weds Miss Zoe Leck.

MOTOR CYCLE ESCORT.

A wedding of much local interest was solemnized in the Hong Kong Union Church, Kennedy Road, yesterday afternoon, when Miss Zoe Leck, of the staff of Texas Co. (China), Ltd. living at 1, Shifoo Terrace, became the bride of Mr. H. G. Williams, of the Wines and Spirits Department, Dodwell & Co., Ltd., Lieutenant of the Motor Cycle Section, Armoured Car Company, Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps.

The Rev. E. G. Powell officiated at the ceremony. The bride, who presented a charming picture, was given away by Mr. C. Bernard Brown, while Mr. J. C. Dunbar, of the Hong Kong Electric Co., discharged the duties of best man.

Subsequently, a reception was held at Messrs. Lane, Crawford's Restaurant. A large number of friends attended including the Motor Cycle Section, who wore uniforms.

After the customary toasts had been honoured with enthusiasm, the happy couple drove by car to Repulse Bay Hotel where they are spending their honeymoon. They were escorted the whole way out by the Motor Cycle Section, under Company Sergeant Major B. S. Rogers.

The car was gaily decorated with coloured streamers while confetti was showered upon it. Affixed to the front of the car was a placard with the words "Honeymoon Express."

The bridegroom himself is a keen motorist and was a participant in the recent Reliability Trial in Kowloon.

ANCIENT FORTS OF CARLISLE AREA.

Built Close Beside Hadrian's Wall.

Carlisle. Research work in connection with the city's history in Roman times is yielding much interesting information. The excavations are being made by the committee of the Cumberland and Westmorland Archaeological Society, under the direction of Mr. F. G. Simpson, and much new light has been thrown on problems connected with Hadrian's Wall and its forts.

Two forts are thought to have existed close together at Carlisle, one on the north side of the River Eden, where Stanwix Church now stands, and the other just across the river, on the present site of Carlisle Castle. The Stanwix fort (congratula) is definitely known to have existed; the other is conjectural.

It is hoped to recover the line of the vallum through Carlisle, and so establish whether the castle hill was utilized by the Romans. If it was, and the fort belonged to the vallum period, then the fort at Stanwix would naturally be an additional stronghold, built at the same time as Hadrian's Wall.

Support was lent to this theory by discoveries made recently. These included the unearthing of a foundation just over 9ft. wide, running in the general line of Hadrian's Wall, and thought to be part of the foundation of the wall.

A further interesting point is that where it was expected to find the remains of the north rampart of the fort, the great wall itself has been found.

The fort, Mr. Simpson thinks must have been a very small one, or, alternatively, Stanwix fort was laid out like that at Drumburgh, where the great wall forms the north wall of the fort itself.

MURDER RING EXPOSED.

Man And Wife In Strange Case.

CRIME ADMITTED.

(Heuter's Special Mail Service.)

Youngstown, Ohio. A strange story of a suspected series of international murders, plotted in Belgium and executed in the United States, has been brought before the prosecutor and Mahoning County authorities.

They state that a man arrested in Brussels, Belgium, has admitted one murder and hinted at several others perpetrated by himself and his wife in order to swindle American insurance companies, according to information sent to the prosecutor by a New York insurance company, The Metropolitan.

The insurance company, the prosecutor said, reported the confession was made to its Brussels representative by a man giving his name as Nicolai Nickolaïd, who previously had lived in Youngstown, Cleveland (Ohio) and New York.

The man claiming to be Nickolaïd is in Brussels, held on a murder charge and his wife, Henrietta, is in custody as an accomplice.

Not Sure of Identity. Youngstown police, however, are not certain the man held in Brussels is Nickolaïd.

A man slain here three years ago was identified to authorities as Nickolaïd, by a woman in Ostend, Belgium, after pictures were sent to her. Police here expressed the belief the suspect may be Rene Copyn, a friend of Nickolaïd. Both worked in a steel mill here.

The Ostend woman, who identified herself as Mrs. Henrietta Nickolaïd, subsequently collected a $5,000 insurance policy on the dead man here.

Strange Co-Incidence.

It was then detectives learned that Copyn also had taken out insurance policies payable to one "Henrietta Copyn," who had the same Ostend address as Mrs. Nickolaïd. Copyn also allegedly collected accident insurance in Cleveland, to which he was not entitled.

The woman held in Brussels said she never heard of Copyn and that her maiden name was Henrietta Copyn.

Regardless of the identity of the Belgian suspect, Prosecutor Thomas said he would attempt to obtain his extradition here to stand trial for murder.

Improvement of public finance is to be effected by adjustment of the present system of taxation, with a view to increasing revenues.

While oppressive taxes are to be abolished, new levies not contrary to people's welfare will be introduced.

Pacification of the province should be concluded after the first six months. Henceforth maintenance of peace and order of the province will be undertaken by a body of protective guards.

Reconstruction work in the villages and towns is planned. With respect to education, attention will be paid to discipline and the teaching of the three Principles of the People. Stress is laid on vocational education.

Administrative and military units must reduce their monthly expenses, and provincial as well as local governments shall disclose their receipts and expenditure for public auditing.

A census will be taken and a survey of land will be made for assessment purposes.

To promote agriculture, co-operative societies will be organized. Forestry, sericulture and fisheries will be encouraged. On its part, the government will foster mining and mark out more farm lands for reclamation and development.

News in Brief.

The draw of the St. John's Ambulance Lottery will take place on December 20 at the Commercial Association, China Building.

Mark Aye, alias C. W. who was wanted in Canada for murder, was captured in New York City and is being held in the city jail.

STRUGGLE OF CONSCIENCE

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

WHEN Xmas Day comes around again next Sunday, we shall be expecting to receive presents of some kind or another. It is not so much the actual cost of these gifts that will matter, as the thought and preparation which lies behind them.

Yet how many people there are who have never guessed that it took Almighty God hundreds of years of working and preparation to give us the gift of Xmas day itself, who are under the impression that it was just an afterthought of God, a sudden incursion of the Divine into human history?

All down the long centuries in the twilight of the world, men were dimly seeking after Him, although He was only a Being of terror who had to be appeased by sacrifice and oblation. The old empires came one after another and passed on, but quietly and steadily the training of one nation shut away in the hills of Galilee was going on. By prophets and teachers they were taught the will of God, and gradually a dim figure emerged from their sacred writings—some Great One Who was to come. The kings and prophets passed, and the sorrowful days of the exile came.

At last the time drew near, and the world began all unconsciously to make ready for the coming of the King. Three races held the chief influence in the world at that time; the Greek, the Roman, and the Jew, and as Patterson Smyth tells us, in one of the most delightful books on the life of Christ ever written—each began to play a part.

The Way Prepared.

The Roman made a road for the coming Messiah. The iron power of the Caesars had welded the little nations into one great federation. For the first time in centuries there was peace throughout the world. The Roman roads swept out in all directions, giving free access to every part of the Empire. Along these roads a few years later the Gospel of the Redeemer was carried far and wide. The Greeks supplied the language. All over the Mediterranean littoral men began to speak Greek as the language of commerce and trade. When St. Paul went out to preach, he was able to talk to the polished Athenians, and the rude tribes in the highlands of Galatia, in one language all could understand. As for the Jews, they were everywhere, scattered across the world in power and influence. Everywhere they took with them their sacred books, which pointed to some golden age which was to come. Their Synagogues became the seedbed of the early Church in the days that followed. Two hundred years before Christ, the Hebrew Bible had been translated into Greek, and all the world could read of a righteous God, and some Great One Whom He would send in the fullness of time.

When we turn to the moral and social conditions of those days we find an equally significant interior preparation. It was a tired and discouraged world that awaited the coming of Christ. Humanity was groaning. Conscience was questioning its supremacy. Men were seeking more deeply than ever for those things that would give them peace and happiness.

Their best days were over. The Golden Age of Greece was in the past. Profligacy and corruption were eating like a cancer into their national life. In the simplicity of their youth their Gods had been very real to them. They had fought with them at the Pass of Thermopylae when the famous 300 had died for Greece, and for right. Now they were a hopeless and effeminate race. Their mythology had become a fairy tale. "The heaven was empty of the Gods."

Look at the Romans! They were in no decline as were the Greeks. Theirs was a brave, magnificent world in its pride of power and mastery and success. But underneath was a sink of rottenness. Tyranny and cruelty were rampant. Slavery was the curse of the Empire. They corrupted their masters and the children. The Roman boys grew old and faded with vice before they were out of their teens. With all its pride and magnificence it was a lonely world for individual men and women. They had their longings after right, but no one to whom they could turn.

Ready Converts. The best of them were tired of it all, and flocked to Christianity when it came. Their Stoic philosophers evolved a noble teaching. They began to recognize the voice of conscience. They called it the "Inward Divinity" and bade men to follow it.

There were longings, yearnings, strivings. For the Good they comprehended not.

And the feeble hands and helpless groping blindly in the darkness. Touched God's right hand in the darkness. And were lifted up and strengthened.

But all these efforts were speculation. It could not stand the rough and tumble of daily life.

Does it not seem remarkable that just when the pagan world was thus seeking for light, when all the highest efforts of unaided human reason had broken down, at the greatest moral crisis in the world's history, the Christ should come?

Needed of Expansion. The more thoughtful students amongst the Jewish people were dissatisfied with their religion. The travelled Jew away from Palestine was broadened by contact with other peoples, and had begun to feel that their faith must be widened so as to include these Gentile races. If it were ever to become acceptable for all humanity.

But the most striking and startling thing to note was the tense expectation of the whole Jewish world in that generation before Christ came. The whole nation was on the tip-toe of excitement. In the beginnings of the Gospels, it is throbbing on every page. Their hopes sprang into eager questioning whenever a leader appeared.

Only now looking back can we realize the position. At a certain period of history, the three great nations of the world were all unconsciously making a pathway for the coming of the King; humanity was in the lowest depths of despair, and blindly groping for some moral and spiritual uplift; when Christ came. And there we have it all. All the dawn of the new day when we shall realize the meaning of the life of Christ, and the meaning of the struggle of conscience.

TRAINS WERE A BOGEY.

By G. Cornwallis-West.

MY first trip to the Continent, when as a small boy I was taken by my parents to the south of France, is impressed on my mind by the discussion which went on for days before we decided as to whether we should start from Victoria or Charing Cross.

It was long before the amalgamation of the old South-Eastern with the London, Chatham and Dover Railway, known as the "London Turn Over and Smash 'em" Railway. Finally, because we lived in Eaton-place, Victoria was chosen, although this was considered the more dangerous line on which to travel.

As a matter of fact, one of the couplings of the vacuum brake did come apart just outside Sevenoaks Tunnel, with the result that the train pulled up in a series of jerks and bangs, and we were an hour late arriving at Dover.

The rolling stock in France in those days left much to be desired. The main advantage to be gained by travelling first class was that we ran on six wheels instead of four. Corridors, restaurant and sleeping cars, or a coach mounted on bogies were unknown.

Felt Some Awe.

The other day, in order to be quite up to date, I flew to Paris and back, a somewhat overdue experience.

If, fifty years before, I had gazed with awe upon a locomotive, I was no less impressed when I beheld the huge Hercules machine, with its enormous wing spread, its four 500 h.p. engines, and its seating accommodation for forty persons, as comfortable as that in a Pullman car.

As we taxied across Croydon Aerodrome prior to taking off, we passed no fewer than six convoys of partridges, all within a few yards of us. They hardly noticed us, evidently taking us as a matter of course. It was foggy, so we rose above the clouds and soon proved the truth of the old adage that "every cloud has a silver lining."

When we were over the Channel the fog cleared, and although we were 3,000ft. up, looking down upon water made the height appear much less. It was only when we happened to get above a timber ship and saw that the planks stacked upon her decks looked like matches, that the illusion was dispelled.

Flying over land, one was better able to realise the height. A flock of sheep looked exactly like maggots, and cattle like caterpillars. It was here, over the fields of France, that I discovered how a well-known designer of the jazz mats which go

CONVICTED MURDER DIES IN ASYLUM.

Believed To Be Victim Of Cancer.

Fung Yau, 39, who was sentenced on June 18, 1930, to be detained at His Majesty's pleasure for the murder of Tam Chai, died in the Asylum, Victoria Gaol, this morning. It is believed that the cause of death was cancer. A formal enquiry, with Mr. Schofield as Coroner, was held later yesterday morning.

Fung Yau was admitted to the Asylum in August, two months after being sentenced by Mr. Justice J. R. Wood.

SHIP TO SHORE. TELEPHONE.

Completion Of New Chain.

The work of equipping eight additional coastal wireless stations with wireless telephone installations, entrusted to the Marconi International Marine Communication Co. Ltd. by the General Post Office last May, has now been completed, and eleven stations are in operation and available to shipping.

They provide a complete chain of low power stations round the coast of the United Kingdom and the Irish Free State, by means of which suitably equipped ships can communicate by telephone with the land. The area of each station has been arranged to overlap those of the adjoining stations.

The service enables ships which do not normally carry wireless telegraph installations to enjoy the benefits of wireless communication with land, and steadily increasing numbers of ships, both trawlers and coasting vessels, have been fitted with the necessary installations.

Swift Passage.

We had hardly finished an excellent cold lunch when the Eiffel Tower and distance spires of Paris became discernible.

We had had a following wind, and had been flying for exactly an hour and fifty minutes when, after a few graceful circular movements, we made the lightest possible descent, and pulled up in front of the Customs House. The only indication we had had of our speed was by watching the movement of the shadow of the huge machine as it skimmed over the earth.

To most of my fellow-passengers the experience was no novelty. Like the partridges at Croydon, they took it as a matter of course. On my return journey I affected to do likewise, but I am still astonished by the unmimagined ease and comfort of the trip, and I find myself wondering why more people do not make use of this means of transit.

GENEROUS OFFER TO FIGHT CANCER.

Gift Of £20,000 To New Hospital.

THOUSANDS IN FEAR.

London.

An anonymous offer of sums up to £20,000 towards an administration fund was announced by Mr. Tom Stott, joint treasurer, at the opening of the new Christie Cancer Hospital at Withington, Manchester.

"Already about £30,000 has been raised," he said. "And now we have received an offer from an anonymous source that when we have raised £50,000 a sum of £1,000 will be provided for every £1,000 that we collect, up to a liability for the donor of £20,000."

It was estimated, he said, that the cost of the hospital would be £180 per bed per annum, and there were 104 beds, making a total yearly cost of £18,720.

The Earl of Derby, who opened the hospital, said: "The mere mention of cancer chills one, and I believe that for every person suffering from the disease a hundred go in dread of it."

Mr. Wilson Hey, chairman of the medical board of the hospital, said that of 13 women of 45 assembled in a room it was probable that two would die of cancer. The position was not much better in regard to men.

Mr. Hey, however, made the following prophecy: "It is as certain as that I stand here to-day that this building will stand when cancer has given up its secret and when it will be classified among the curable diseases."

Opening the adjoining Holt Radium Institute, which will house radium worth £50,000, Elizabeth Lady Holt said that she believed there was no finer institute in Europe.

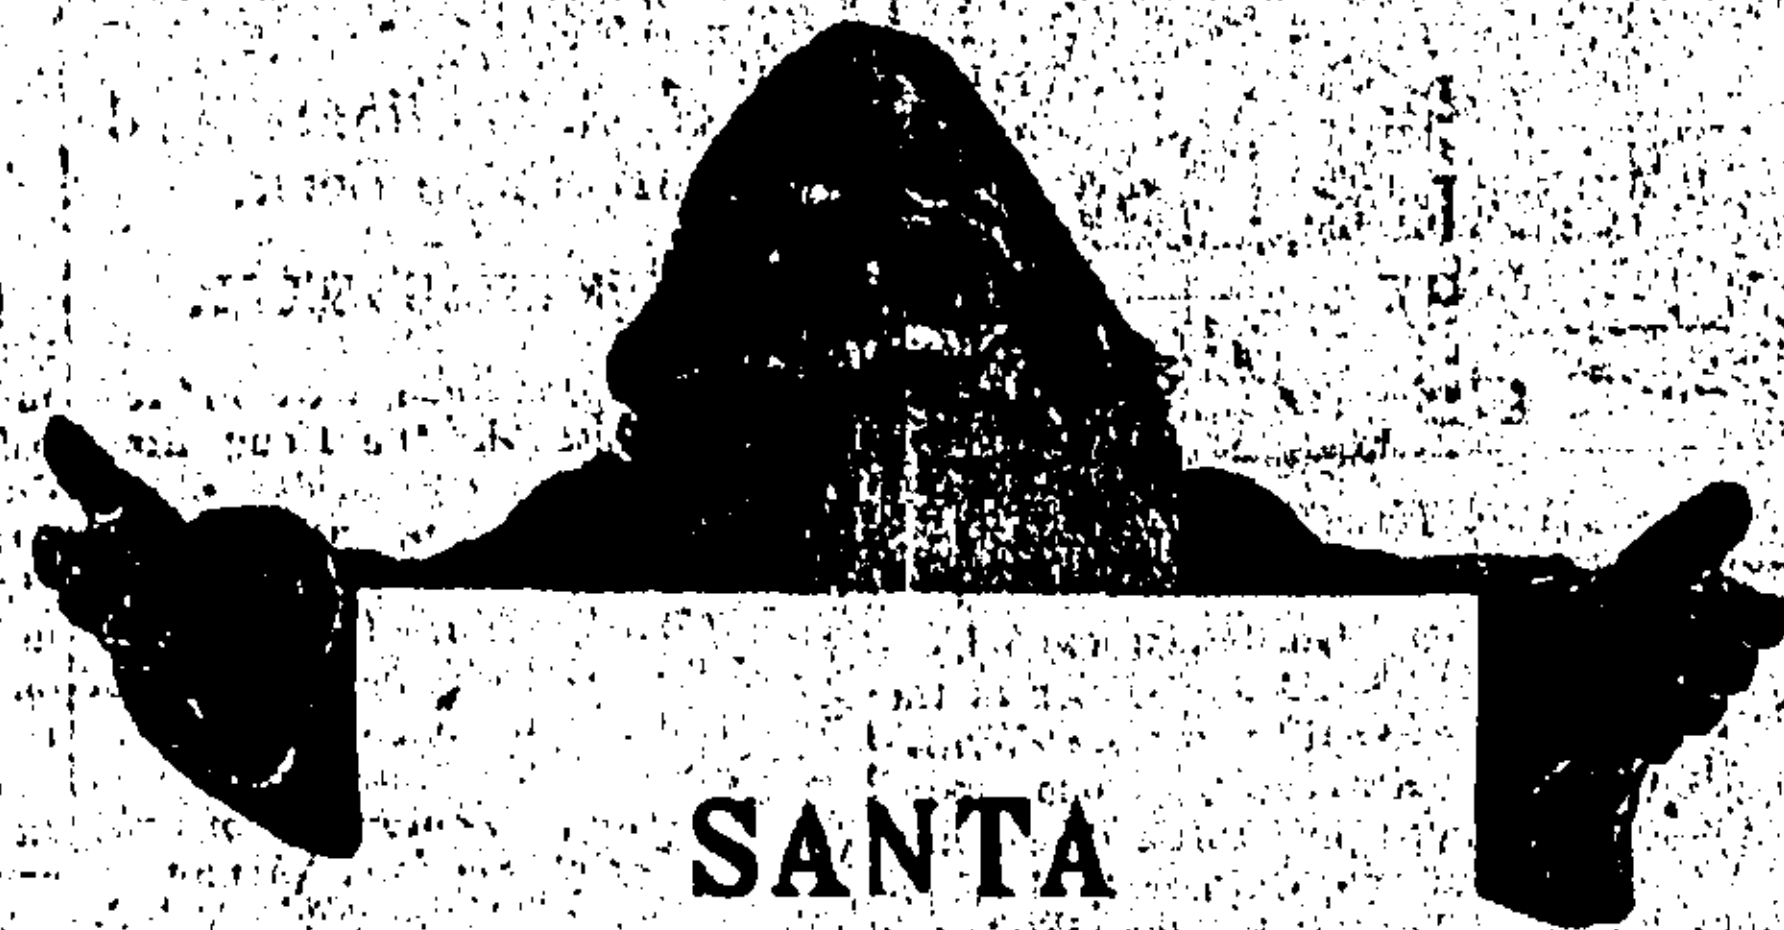

Lady Holt is the widow of the late Sir Edward Holt, who played a notable part, with her assistance, in pioneer cancer work in Manchester.

ARMED BANDITS ON FORESHORE.

Butchers Held Up At Knife Point.

While walking along the foreshore between Tai Wan and Nga Tau Kok Yim Ying, 26, and his folk, Liu Chai, 18, carrying a basket containing a quantity of pork, were attacked by six men, armed with daggers, on Friday night.

According to Yim Ying, the robbers emerged from behind a big tree, and drove them to the hillside where they were bound and gagged. The robbers made off with the pork and two electric torches.

TOPICS

From Our Own Correspondent

November 27.

The "Marooning" of Sir Edwin.
Sir Edwin Lutyens is back in London, none the worse for his "marooning" on Lambay Island, north of Dublin Bay—an accident which prevented his appearance at the Authors' Club dinner recently. The island, which belongs to Lord Revelstoke, is three miles from Malahide, near Dublin, and a severe gale prevented the use of the small motor boat which is the accepted mode of transport to the mainland.

A Pirate Stronghold.
Less than a square mile in area, Lambay Island is an ideal spot for a quiet holiday. Lord Revelstoke—he was then the Hon. Cecil Baring—acquired it in 1904. Under the eye of Sir Edwin Lutyens considerable improvements and some tasteful modernisations were effected in the old castle, the island's chief landmark.

At one time Lambay was a notorious stronghold of the pirates who infested the St. George's Channel. Now, however, it is uninhabited, save for the castle and a coastguard station. The island is a famous breeding-ground for seals, and for multitudes of sea and land birds, including several rare species. The castle itself dates from 1551.

Lord Beatty Back.
Lord Beatty and his two sons, who returned from the United States this week, satisfactorily completed their business in Chicago. This concerned arrangements connected with the legacies left under Lady Beatty's will. The Admiral and his sons—Lord Borodale, the Conservative M.P. for Peckham, and Mr. Peter Beatty—benefit to the extent of a million dollars each.

To Marry....
Mr. Dingle Foot, the Liberal member for Dundee, whose engagement has been announced is a member of a family noted for its ardent Liberalism and its Puritanism.

Indeed, when his father, Mr. Isaac Foot, was Minister for Mines, the son figured in an amusing incident in the House. Gravely, the son inquired of his Ministerial parent why one of his first Departmental acts had been to have a new "Cromwell House" heading put on his official notepaper!

In Cornwall, where they have a charming home, the Foots are known as pillars of Nonconformist Radicalism.

Sir Charles Tegart....

Sir Charles Tegart had an exceptionally large and influential gathering of the Royal Empire Society to hear his address on terrorism in India.

Only a first-hand story, told thus dramatically yet modestly, could have held the obvious interest of the listeners for so long. Sir Charles had proofs at hand for every statement made in his thrilling narrative.

One could not but notice throughout that behind his detestation of the methods of the terrorists was a genuine sympathy with the youths of India who are thus easily misled into sharing in them.

By reason of his patience, courage and tactfulness Sir Charles justified the description given of him by a speaker as "the perfect policeman."

Winchester House....

Two Royal favourites of some notoriety were among the early occupants of the mansion that preceded Winchester House in St. James's-square, which has recently been sold. One of these ladies was Arabella Churchill, who lived there from 1676-78, the other being Catherine Sedley.

The existing house was built by the fourth Duke of Leeds from the designs of Robert Bretingham. Raggett, later the proprietor of White's, opened it in 1806 as the Union Club, which degenerated into a gambling hell of the worst type. It received its present name in 1829, when it was bought to serve as the town residence of the Bishops of Winchester.

There now seems a strong possibility that, like many another famous London house, it will disappear and be replaced by a modern building of officers and flats.

Zoo's Oldest Keeper....

The oldest Zoo keeper has died, aged 94. He has been living on pension, since he retired when he was 72.

Mr. J. R. Topping—that was his name—had the distinction of being the smallest keeper they have ever had at the Zoo. He stood less than 4ft. in his socks, and for thirty-three years was in charge of the giraffe house.

Sir Thomas Inskip's Mishap....

While Sir Thomas Inskip, the Attorney-General, was hurrying to the House of Commons recently his despatch case flew open and a pile of documents fell into the mud. A policeman came to Sir Thomas's aid, and helped him to recover the papers.

Sir Thomas, doubtless feeling somewhat annoyed, tried to rub the mud off on his coat, then he ran into the House to clean both documents and clothes.

London's Foreign Trees....

Once more the plane trees have completed their change of bark in the parks and gardens. Although nearly 60 per cent. of London's trees are planes, it is not an English tree. Like most of its fellows, it comes from abroad.

Oddly enough, British trees do not thrive in London. The British oak never rises to its London. The British oak never rises to its full stature in the city, whereas the Turkish oak seems little troubled by town life. Where our trees languish and die, foreign trees quicken and thrive.

Sir Thomas Lipton's Bequests....

It is expected that the public bequests made by Sir Thomas Lipton will be available well before the end of the year. He had so many interests in so many quarters of the earth that naturally it has taken time to carry through the legal formalities.

Sir Thomas left, in round figures, half-a-million sterling, and his most interesting legacy was $100,000 for the welfare of the poor mothers of Glasgow. Of this sum he had given $20,000 during his life-time, so that $80,000 remains for them.

The poor of Glasgow, a city with which he had such a close relationship, were always in Sir Thomas Lipton's heart, and apart from his direct bequest they will benefit from the residue of his estate.

Press Blamed For Gambling Trend

WILL ENGLAND GET A SWEEPSTAKE?

THE Archbishop of York was the first witness, and, in supporting what was urged in the memorandum about the restriction or prohibition of the publication of betting news, said he believed it was a fact that in Canada such publication was prohibited, and effectively so. "I submit," he said, "that we are not asking for any interference with individual liberty in any proper sense of that word, but we do ask for drastic action against the exploitation of certain instincts which has developed and is doing very great social and moral harm. There has been an immense increase in the public excitement of gambling. It is far more common and more difficult for young people to have any opportunity to stand out against it, because they find themselves in so small a minority." With regard to horse-racing and publication he wished to distinguish between publishing accounts of the races as news of the day and the publication of betting prices in advance.

"Tips" A Fraud
The Chairman.—Do you think publication of "tips" should be banned?—From all I can hear of them they are an elaborate fraud upon the public and ought to be suppressed upon that ground. (Laughter.) I should further say they ought to be suppressed as part of the pre-publication of betting news.

The Chairman.—On the question of lotteries and sweepstakes it has been suggested here that a large number of people in this country see no moral harm in lotteries and that it is extremely difficult entirely to stop the sale of tickets in, say, the Irish sweepstake in this country. It is suggested that if there were three or four authorized sweepstakes in this country in the course of the year they would make it easier to stop a large number of other lotteries which were not authorized. Do you think there is anything in that suggestion?

Dr. Temple.—I speak without experience of administration in such matters, but I cannot conceive why authorizing some should make it easier to stop others, or even to control them.

Replying to further questions regarding raffles and Christmas draws, Dr. Temple said he thought they were all objectionable in themselves on that ground. He was sometimes asked to become patron of various Church enterprises, and he always made it a condition that no lotteries or raffles should form part of the programme. The principle seemed to him to be the same whether the operation was large or small.

Allegations that the Press is responsible for a large amount of the increase in betting and gambling that has taken place in recent years were made at a meeting of the Royal Commission on Lotteries and Betting at Westminster. Mr. Graham Campbell presided in the absence of Sir Sidney Rowlett.

The allegations were part of the statement of evidence submitted by the Christian Social Council, prepared by a special committee appointed by a conference of the various Church organisations to collect and present its considered judgments and proposals. The document dealt at length with the growth and extent of gambling, its social effects, economic consequences, and ethical bearings, and made some "constructive proposals."

It asserted that:—
"The growth of betting and gambling (as here set forth) is undoubtedly due in part to the modern methods of publicity and the facilities provided by the newspaper Press and certain of the public services. With a few exceptions the ordinary newspaper to-day no longer treats news about horse racing and other sports as of normal interest, but brings into prominence all those aspects which promote betting. Most leading daily papers employ their own special tipsters to 'write up' the races and offer 'tips' to the public. The contents bills which advertise any success which these tipsters may have. Prominence is given to the publication of the odds on horses and starting prices. Greyhound racing 'selections' appear regularly. Many evening papers have associated with them special racing editions which are almost entirely devoted to betting information."

"A Vested Interest"
"Apart from the regular newspapers with their racing editions there is a special sporting Press, a large section of which is given over almost entirely to racecourse betting. While making allowance for the few exceptions it remains broadly true that the Press has become an active agent in the promotion of betting and has a vested interest in its continuance."

The committee further stated that "experience shows that any extension of facilities means an increase in gambling and in the view of the Churches the present situation demands a determined effort to reduce the facilities which now exist. There is no suggestion of prohibiting betting by law, but of reducing organized inducements and facilities. We believe it is possible to exaggerate the difficulties of enforcing the existing law except in so far as they are occasioned by an obvious absence of uniformity."

They therefore recommend legislation to enact:—(a) That it be illegal to publish in the Press or elsewhere lists of betting odds, whether on future events or starting prices and totalisator dividends. (b) That it be illegal to publish in the Press or elsewhere tips or forecasts of racing results, which are directly related to betting upon those tips or forecasts. (c) That all advertisements, circulars, letters, or the

ST. ANDREW'S CLUB CARNIVAL NIGHT

Clever Costumes At Annual Ball.

Gaiety prevailed in St. Andrew's Church Hall on Friday night on the occasion of the annual plain and fancy dress ball, organised by St. Andrew's Club.
The first prize for the best dressed lady was won by Mrs. Dann, representing a shepherdess. Miss J. Gillis was awarded the prize for the most original costume.
Mr. Cyril Gregory, an Argentinean won the prize for the best dressed man. Mr. F. Wong as a pirate carried off the prize for the most original costume.
Mr. E. F. Fincher was M.C.

Like relating to betting, or tipsters' business, within or without the United Kingdom, should be illegal."

The Totalisator
"The committee take a serious view of the action of Parliament in setting up the Betting Control Board to operate the totalisator thus giving Government support and sanction to betting practices; and they further recommend that no ready-money betting offices should be legalized in any form; that the provisions of the Betting Act, 1853, should be amended in accordance with its intention to suppress all betting houses; that the Racecourse Betting Act, 1928, should be amended as to restrict the totalisator to the racecourses used for the purposes of horse-racing; and that it should be clearly indicated that the use of the totalisator, or any equivalent system of betting, in any form of social or sports club would be an offence against the Act."

CONVICTS ESCAPE PENAL CAMP.

Seven Desperate Men Elude Guards.

(Reuter's Special Mail Service).

Seven convicts, guilty of murder, theft and manslaughter, have escaped from the penal camp at Kourou, opposite Devil's Island, in French Guiana. Only the most dangerous criminals are kept on the island itself, others being camped on the mainland, where escape is, of course, less difficult.

An artist, who was sentenced to five years' penal servitude for theft, has in addition made a clear getaway from Saint Laurent du Maroni.

Just what may happen when convicts succeed in making good their escape and getting back to France is shown in a case which has just been tried at Rennes.

A woman visiting a fair felt another woman picking her pocket. She turned round. A well-dressed man had stepped between her and the woman and was obviously trying to shield her.

Although the man owned an estate in the neighbourhood, and came in every evening for his game of bridge in the best cafe of the town with the local notabilities and even the leading police officials, they were both arrested.

It was then discovered that he had escaped from Guiana at the outbreak of the war.

His mother, who had already been sentenced to imprisonment in 1922 for theft, tried to take the blame on herself, but both were sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment. The "Chatelet" of Rennes will doubtless return to Guiana.

PRISON FOR AN ADMIRAL'S SON.

Used A Car While Disqualified.

London.

Roderick Stanhope Wemyss, son of Vice-Admiral E. W. Wemyss, of White House, Ifield, Crawley, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment and ordered to pay £2 8s 9d costs for driving a motor-car while he was disqualified.

Three other summonses alleging the use of a driving licence with intent to deceive, the use of a car without having third-party insurance, and the use of a car for which an Excise licence was not in force, were taken into consideration.

Police evidence was that when stopped at Midhurst on Aug. 21 Wemyss was driving a car which bore an Excise licence. He produced a driving licence which, it was alleged, bore the name "Everitt." Wemyss stated that his friends had driven him in his car to Bournemouth. Being a commercial traveller, he had to get back to London, and, having no money for the train fare, he was driving back when he was stopped.

It was stated that Wemyss had sent to Chichester for an Excise licence, but did not enclose the money for it.

On oath, Wemyss said that he did enclose the money.
Supt. Holmes said that the description of "Everitt," who, Wemyss had said, had gone to Australia, tallied very closely, according to the Metropolitan police, with that of Wemyss.

DENTIST INVENTS NEW PROPELLOR

Saves Lost Energy In Propulsion.

(Reuter's Special Mail Service).

The new device is a kind of propeller and is known as the "Turbine Fin."

"It will be fitted to the auxiliary yacht Oimara before she sails for England from Melbourne. It is claimed on that the 'Turbine Fin' considerably reduces the amount of waste energy, estimated at 60 per cent. of the applied horsepower involved in the usual of propelling ships."

GAOL PRISONER IN COURT.

Charged With Wounding Fellow Convict.

Tee Kau, who is serving five years' hard labour for robbery, was brought before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court yesterday morning, when he was remanded a further week on a charge of maliciously wounding a fellow convict, Tam Tak, who is in the Government Civil Hospital.

Detective-Inspector J. Murphy stated that the injured man would be in hospital for at least another four weeks.

It is alleged that on December 7, Tee Kau attacked Tam Tak with an axe in the carpenter's shop. Serious injuries were sustained, and it is probable that Tam Tak may lose the use of one or both arms.

TYRE TESTS BY GOODRICH CO.

Interesting Results Obtained.
SERVICE TRIALS.

The results of a number of very interesting and latest tyre service tests have just been received by the general China distributors for the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio. These tests, made under the most careful operating conditions possible, were carried out by the famous Silver Fleet of the tyre company, operating night and day over the highways of the entire U.S. in an endeavour to obtain accurate tyre performance data.

In presenting the results of their tests, the Goodrich engineers point out that although variations in quality of product are not impossible, the present system of careful inspection of everything from the raw materials, through the processing and manufacturing of the product, makes it practically impossible to have any great variation in the quality of the finished tyre.

Life of Tyre.

Put the tyre into service, however, and one immediately discovers the greatest differences in operating methods, and consequently in tyre life. For instance, operating over California asphalt macadam roads, results were obtained which may be called 100 per cent. for the life of the tyre. Operating over Florida crushed limestone roads, with asphalt binder, the mileage fell to 65 per cent., although cars, speeds, temperatures and the like were about equal. Operating over a new concrete highway, with a rough surface, the service was 80 per cent. of the first. On old concrete, which had been worn relatively smooth, the tyre gave 180 per cent. the service as on the first road, while on a California smooth macadam road, without binder, the results were again 80 per cent.

Effect of Speed.

The effect of speeds and temperatures on tyre life are equally as interesting. The life of a tyre at 20 miles per hour, and at a temperature of 40 degrees Fahrenheit was taken as normal, or 100 per cent. Maintaining the speed at 20 m.p.h., but raising the temperature to 60 degrees, the mileage fell off to 40½ per cent., at 80 degrees it fell off further to 27 per cent., while at 100 degrees the service was only 21 per cent. of the first figure. Again, raising at speed to 30 m.p.h., and using the temperature changes above, lower results were obtained, while at 40 m.p.h. and a temperature of 40 degrees Fahrenheit the service was 75 per cent., at 60 degrees it was 40 per cent., at 80 degrees it lowered to 22 per cent., and at 100 degrees it was but 14 per cent. of the normal. In actual mileage, a casing which would run 25,000 miles at 20 m.p.h. and a temperature of 20 degrees would perform but 8,500 at 40 m.p.h., and 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

BRITISH BUSES IN BUCHAREST

Great interest has been aroused by the announcement in Scotland that a British syndicate has been formed to provide Bucharest, the capital of Roumania, with up-to-date bus transport facilities. The promoter of the scheme is Sir Murdoch Macdonald, M.P. The concession for running the services has already been approved by the Bucharest municipality and is now expected to be ratified within the next month by the Roumanian Parliament.

As soon as this ratification is received, the syndicate, it is stated, will form a company to work the concession, and contract for the supply of the necessary buses and plant will be placed. It has been estimated that 800 buses will be required, and the sum involved will be about £400,000.

Feminine Influence On Automobiles Women Drivers Move Out Of The "Back Seat"

EXECUTIVE'S OPINION

WITH women comprising approximately 20 per cent. of all licensed motor car operators in the United States, the influence of the feminine motorist is being felt in the automobile industry to-day as never before, according to N. E. McDarby, vice-president in charge of sales of the Auburn Automobile Co.

Based on his estimate on the issuance of State drivers' licenses throughout the United States, Mr. McDarby cited the rapid ascendancy of the woman driver during the last decade as responsible for many of the outstanding advancements of the automobile industry.

"The importance of winning feminine acceptance has been recognized by every successful manufacturer since the earliest days of the automobile," he said, "but it has only been in the last ten years that the winning of such acceptance has entailed more than the mere embodiment of style and riding comfort in the product."

"During this period, women have learned to judge automobiles from the standpoint of the critical driver. Salesmen have found women to be more positive in their likes and dislikes than men. The first requirements any woman makes of a motor car are that it be smart in appearance and comfortable to ride in."

"But just as important to her is perfect performance in every power range coupled with maximum ease of operation. Controls must be accessible without strain, and light to the touch. There must be ample power for any emergency."

lightning acceleration in traffic, and plenty of speed on the straight-away.

Appreciate Smoothness

"Women also are learning more and more to appreciate smoothness and economy of operation, and are quick to recognize advancements which promote these vital features. A study of Auburn sales this year shows that scores of women have become enthusiastic users of Dual-Ratio since its introduction by Auburn."

"By combining maximum power in traffic and effortless speed on the open road, with smoothness of operation and unprecedented economy, Dual-Ratio has found a highly receptive audience among the feminine motorists of the United States. Women no longer are content to remain in the 'back seat.' To-day they are to be found behind the wheel, driving with equal, and in many instances, greater skill than men."

"Official figures compiled by one large eastern state shows that nearly two per cent. of all registered male automobile drivers figured in automobile accidents during 1931, as compared with less than one per cent. of the total number of licensed women drivers."

"This does not necessarily indicate that women are better drivers than men, but it does indicate that women to-day understand the mechanical operation of the motor car as never before. The influence of feminine knowledge and discernment is making itself felt in every phase of the automobile industry."

WORLD TOUR BY CAR FROM AFRICA.

Four Johannesburg Adventurers.

Four Johannesburg men have set out on a world tour by motor car, says the "Natal Mercury." They intend to encircle the globe on four wheels. The great adventure started with a modest tour of the Union, when three of the men—S. Goldberg, formerly of London and the Congo; A. Edelstein, described as a Hungarian student with a flair for photography, and H. Mellet, a South African—set out in a Hillman Wizard. Later they are to be joined by H. Kunz, a Swiss mechanic, and a second Hillman, on the real business of "conquering Africa," as the first stage of circumnavigating the globe. Together the four men claim mastery of eleven languages.

Their route through Africa from Johannesburg is via Victoria Falls and Broken Hills to Elizabethville, and then due west through the Congo to Angola, and northwards to Dakar, the last British outpost on the North-West coast. It seems likely, they are unable to find a way further north along the coast belt; they will proceed to Timbuctoo, and follow the recognized road to Gao and across the Sahara to Algeria. Their intention then is to go to England and the proceed through Europe and the near East to Palestine, and on to India, and back to Johannesburg. Since the motor car is a new machine, they will be equipped with a spare car, and the sum involved will be about £400,000.

VALVE ACTION NULLIFIED.

Faulty Ignition Spoils Car's Compression.

While proper valve action and full compression are essential to the production of full power in the engine, their good can almost be nullified by a faulty ignition system or improper carburetion.

These are the two essentials to maintaining the best of power. Compression may be perfect and valve action just right, but if the spark doesn't occur at the proper time power is lost. The spark must be perfectly timed to occur at just the right moment in each cylinder. The breaker points of the timer must hit accurately, and the spark gap must be the width of the thickness of a thin dime.

If the spark occurs before or after the piston reaches this point, there is loss of compression and of power. Therefore the spark must be perfectly timed to occur at just the right moment in each cylinder. The breaker points of the timer must hit accurately, and the spark gap must be the width of the thickness of a thin dime.

In the case of pre-ignition, the gas ignites and explodes before the piston has reached the top of its stroke, thus forcing the piston against its natural movement and causing a metallic knock in the engine.

In the case of a retarded spark, the mixture has been allowed to expand before reaching the piston, and the engine will lose power and run rough.

HUGE TAX PAID BY MOTORS.

Road Fund Brings Millions To Nation.

HOME MARKET SAFE.

Many little-known facts, of interest to the public as well as to motorists, are revealed in the 1932 edition of "The Motor Industry of Great Britain," issued by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders of Great Britain.

The number of motor vehicles in use in the United Kingdom as at the September census of 1931 was 1,588,076, of which 1,103,715 represented private cars, 367,452 trucks and 80,182 hackney carriages.

Since then, of course, the total has increased considerably and is now probably well over 1,600,000.

Tables dealing with the production of motor vehicles in the United Kingdom show that in 1932 the production of vehicles was 95,000, of which 71,396 were private cars and 23,604 were commercial vehicles.

By the end of 1926 the total had risen to 198,000, and at the end of September, 1931, it had reached 228,207 (cars 158,977, and commercial vehicles 67,300). It is not anticipated that the sales of home-produced vehicles in the United Kingdom will show a decrease in 1932 of more than four per cent.

Sure Home Market.

That the home market is now virtually assured to the British manufacturer is clearly proved by tables showing the gross imports into the United Kingdom during 1931, compared with preceding years.

"The figures of road costs and of direct and indirect motor vehicle taxation," it is stated, "afford some indication of the fact that during the past few years special motor taxation has gone far in the aggregate to pay for the whole of the road costs of the country."

It is stated that the average direct tax on all mechanically-propelled vehicles mounted in 1931 to £26 8s.

Taxation Pays.

Since the inception of the Road Fund, no less than £277,000,000 had been paid indirectly, if not directly, by the produce of special taxation of the various classes of road vehicles. Of this, 30 per cent. had been allocated to road authorities in respect of maintenance grants.

The number of motor vehicles in use throughout the world on December 31 last was:

|         |            |
|---------|------------|
| Europe  | 5,680,654  |
| America | 28,144,906 |
| Asia    | 577,743    |
| Oceania | 749,222    |
| Africa  | 363,916    |
| Total   | 35,516,442 |

The estimated consumption of motor spirit in the United Kingdom during 1931 was 1,025,000 gallons, compared with 995,000, 000 gallons in 1930.

When the exhaust opens. The result is an over-heated engine. Proper carburetion for higher power means feeding of the proper proportion of fuel and air into the engine. The mixture is too lean—that is, when there is not enough fuel in proportion to the air—the engine will misfire at high speeds and at low idling speed.

If the mixture is too rich on the other hand, the engine will choke and will not run smoothly and at regular intervals will stall and stop.

Associated with it, logically and distinctively, is the other important word, "enduring"—a Packard characteristic for a third of a century.

REVIVING STAGGERED WORLD

Experience Gagged At The Crisis Tradition Rules With Jealous Power

THE readjustment of the monetary and credit organization of the world, the transfer of certain broad concerns in its economy from the quasi-individualistic methods of the present time to collective control, constitute a group of administrative problems hardly more serious than the rehabilitation of a stalled machine.

The task is hardly more formidable than, let us say, the restoration of a Rolls-Royce or a Lincoln or a Hispano-Suiza car which has been stuck in the mud for some weeks, which has choked engines, a damaged chassis, a bent wheel, the carburettor foul, and one or two minor parts missing.

No spirited mechanic, whose life depended upon it, would refuse to undertake it. The problem created by the present economic breakdown is certainly not more formidable than that.

So far as it is a breakdown of method and mechanism it is entirely within the compass of our courage and resources.

DANGER.

The world has become one economic system in about a century; a number of once practically autonomous economic systems have undergone coalescence and have so expanded into one another that separation has become impossible, while the expansion of Governments has undergone no corresponding unification.

Economic interdependence has been accompanied by no adequate increase of political interdependence.

We are living, socially and politically, in a patchwork of traditions and anachronisms.

We are only now waking up to a realization of the monstrous danger of this discord.

We have the disorganized mechanism, but, alas! there is no mechanic. Instead there is a crowd that might be compared with a certain justice to old coachmen, postillions, amateurs—what you will—all claiming control of different parts of the machine and with a time-honoured tradition of mutual hostility.

DISPUTES.

They are so obsessed by their ancient and antiquated animosities that none of them will listen for a moment to the advice of the intelligent onlookers, the economists. They will not let the mechanic cure it. They are not doing anything to recover the car.

Indeed, their disputes are constantly making its plight worse.

There was no concerted world policy about money and credit; there was inflation here and deflation there, and there were disastrous floods and whirlpools of trade culminating in our present worldwide disorganization and depression.

Quite a similar parallelism is to be found if we consider what will happen if one State attempts large measures of public employment while another sits down to sweating (but employing) its own population to sustain cut-throat competition with its neighbours.

We want some force that will jump political boundaries and operate in a world-wide manner.

The only force conceivable that will do this now is a widespread, clear consciousness of the immediacy of our danger and of the primary necessity for a general, moderated inflation to relieve the burden of debt and for public undertaking to relieve unemployment, both protected from the raids of speculators and from lapses into international and internal competitiveness.

IDEAS.

How can we set about it? We have to-day quite unprecedented means for bringing ideas, stated boldly and simply, into the minds of millions—the wireless, the cinema, the modern Press.

No one has yet been able to estimate what vast changes in the public will might be effected by the concerted and concentrated fire of these distributive machines.

Is such concerted action possible? The men who can say "Yes" or "No" in these organizations probably do not number more than a few thousands, all told.

Many are accessible to reason and all are amenable to one sort of pressure or another. They know each other to a considerable extent.

VOICES.

Is it impossible to swing them into common action together in this case of world emergency?

Are they necessarily and incurably regarded as a whole—in a state of idiotic dementia?

Must they always direct opinion in a score of divergent directions?

Is there no escape from the rigidities of tradition except complete disaster?

In relation to what are they to swing together? The great campaign for an appeal for world-wide economic cooperation demands formulation and leadership. And here again arises a question of what is possible, to which the answer can only be found by trial.

There are a number of prominent figures in the world who can make statements that will be respected and listened to throughout the earth. Consider, for example, the King of England, the Prince of Wales, the President of the United States, the heads of various States abroad, various leading statesmen; all these can speak with a resonance which no financial expert, no "outsider," however intelligent, can command.

Is it impossible that a group of these Big Voices should speak severally but to the same effect, on this need for world action of a definite sort, concerted world action, to restore the sinking spirits of our times; revive our commerce and cement our friendly ties?

Believe It Or Not.

After all, only a slight effort is necessary to change prosperity from nowhere into now here.

Splendid Testimonial.

"And are you a good cook?"
"I should say I am, ma'am. Why, I was sacked from a boarding-house!"

Small Ad.

Will exchange beach pyjamas and swimming suit for gas-fire and hot water bottle.

Turning of the Tied.

Divorces are reported to have increased by 500 per cent. during one generation. Dear, dear, it's not like mother used to mate.

Embarrassing Moments.

"Many a man has met his wife in a restaurant," says a romantic novelist. And has to tell her that the pretty brunette was placed at his table, because there was no room for her elsewhere.

ZERO-WORSHIP.

"The Garbo's peculiar coldness is the secret of her great attraction."

Darling of the Odds.

A factory girl recently confessed that she had staked every penny she could borrow on a horse which afterwards won at 20 to 1. She was poor... but she was on it!

SIGNALS.

In a new London restaurant customers summon the waitresses by telephone. A high-pitched buzz indicates that the waitresses are engaged in an exciting discussion about their favourite film stars.

To-day's News.

A larger bar has been found at Walkenden for using bad language to a police constable. His fellow-workers are now threatening where he could have picked it up.

"THE BIG GAMBLE"

SEBASTIAN PLAYS OPPOSITE
STAR HUSBAND IN NEW FILM.

She is Mrs. Bill Boyd now but a certain little Dixie girl, who won the hearts of New York and Hollywood before she did that of her screen star husband, is not letting marriage interfere with her career.

The girl's name is Dorothy Sebastian, and she brings real life romance to the screen by playing the leading role opposite her husband in his new RKO Pathe picture, "The Big Gamble," coming to-day to the Central Theatre.

Although a star in her own right, she is not at all averse to taking second billing in her husband's picture, which is real proof of wisely devotion in Hollywood.

Miss Sebastian was born in Birmingham, Alabama, and was educated at the university of Alabama. Having stage ambitions, she went to New York where such aspirations usually meet an untimely death. Here did not. After playing a minor role in a fashion show, she decided to get a part in a musical revue.

Undaunted by the fact that several hundred girls had the same idea, she picked her show—George White's "Scandals"—and walked backstage one day where the players were rehearsing. A man approached her and asked what she wanted. She told him and got the job. The man was George White himself.

When the show went on the road after the New York season, Miss Sebastian came to Hollywood where the same combination of calm assurance, beauty and ability that had brought her success on stage won her a chance in the film. Her first screen role was in "Sackcloth and Scarlet," with Alice Terry. She did such good work that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer placed her under contract.

Among her pictures were "Winds of Chance," "Why Women Love," "Bride of the Beast," "Seven Wives," "Broken Butterfly," "The Demi-Bride," "On Ze Boulevard," "California," "Wyoming," "A Woman of Affairs," "Split Marriage," "The Green Ghost," and "The Single-Standard."

NEW KUOMINTANG BUILDING.

Planned For Canton In Near Future.

Canton, Yesterday.

A new building for provincial and city Kuomintang is proposed for this city in order to meet present needs.

The construction fund, as proposed, is to be raised by three methods, namely, voluntary contribution, official contribution and the special contribution.

In voluntary contribution, every member of the Kuomintang in this city or province is required to contribute a certain amount for the construction of the new building; in official contribution, all officials and party workers of this province are required to contribute a certain amount in proportion to their incomes; and in special contribution, all persons who are interested in this matter will be asked to contribute any amount.

Memorial medals will be granted to the special contributors.—Central Press.

KUOMINTANG CHIEFS DENY BATTLE PLAN.

Reuter learns authoritatively that these reports were erroneous. The proposals did not emanate and were not sponsored by the Government leader mentioned, but were merely passed in the ordinary way as one of numerous proposals admissible for debate during the present Conference of the C.E.C.

These proposals do appear on the agenda of this present conference, however, and must consequently be supported by a group of delegates.

While the representatives of the major veterans' organizations rallied their forces to renew in Congress the demand for cash payment of the bonus and to present a united front against reductions, Hoover proposed that the annual outlay be reduced to $931,077,000.

Retention of Petrol Tax

He recommended that the federal tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline, enacted at the previous session, be retained for another year.

Government salaries should be cut by 11 per cent, he said, and at the same time the present 8-1/8 per cent cut operative under the month's payless furlough plan enacted in the spring retained.

The pay reduction would affect the incomes above $1,000 of all civilian employees, and it was estimated the annual saving would total $55,000,000. The recommendation provided that all government-owned corporations should impose the same reductions to the pay of their employees.

President Hoover recommended that the appropriations for the next fiscal year total $4,218,308,844. He predicted a deficit of $1,146,479,807 for the present fiscal year, and estimated it would be $307,000,000 next year unless the additional tax and economy programme was adopted.

Military Strength

Provision was made in the budget estimates for an average active regular army strength of 12,000 officers, 383,000 warrant officers and 115,700 enlisted men, the figures being the same as recommended last year.

THIRTY NEW PARKS FOR CANTON.

Authorities Provide Recreation.

Canton, Yesterday.

With the object of providing more recreation facilities, the City Planning Commission announced today that 30 more parks in various parts of the city will be added to the present park system.

These parks will be set out according to local conditions and the street layout. The natural scenery and historical spots will be duly preserved.

The new system designs the parks into six sections, five to be included in the north-east section, four in the west, six in the south-east, seven in the south, five in the middle and three in the south-west.—Central Press.

ARTIST'S EXHIBITS DELAYED.

Customs' Demands For 100 Paintings.

Because of a delay in the arrival of the pictures, owing to the Canton Customs requiring duty deposits on over 100 paintings, the exhibition of Mr. C. S. Tan at the Gloucester Building, which should have commenced yesterday will open today.

The exhibition is open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. until December 24. The paintings include a study of Sir R. Tagore and another of a Spanish dancer.

CANTON SCHOOLS.

The establishment of five large kindergartens to accommodate 8,000 children is being planned by the Canton Government, and will be carried out in the near future.

Boncour Remains Undecided

Automatic Call To Police Station.

Canton, Yesterday.

M. Boncour is a distinguished diplomat, a quiet-spoken, unobtrusive man, whose manners are foreign to those generally associated with popular politics. Nevertheless, he has an immense following in France. He has won the confidence of the nation by his work in arms and debt conferences, his handling of the delicate discussions in which France and Germany were involved recently, and his term of office as president of the Council of the League of Nations brought him many friends.

The new system designs the parks into six sections, five to be included in the north-east section, four in the west, six in the south-east, seven in the south, five in the middle and three in the south-west.—Central Press.

NEW DEVICE TO THWART ROBBER.

Automatic Call To Police Station.

Burglar Bill had just slid back the window-catch with his pen-knife when—

A rubber finger automatically dialled the local telephone exchange and a gramophone record in a sound-proof box began to revolve. "Burglars have broken into this house," said Bill five minutes later, when the police arrived.

It is a fair copy said Bill five minutes later, when the police arrived.
